Spring Training Time!

THE FRIENDLY MASSEY MARATHON

By Chloe Kneer - Shake off the winter blahs and start training now for the Friendly Massey Marathon, which is celebrating 37 years in 2013. The marathon, one of only three in northern Ontario, is being held the weekend of July 20-21. It is an A+ accredited race and many runners use their times to qualify for the Boston and New York marathons.

Over the last four decades, the race has been known by several names including the Rainbow Country Marathon, the Voyageur Marathon, and now the Friendly Massey Marathon. In addition to the big race there is also the Spanish River half marathon and the Chutes 10k. There are also 2k and 5k fun runs geared towards families and amateur runners who are just becoming interested in the sport.

The whole event is run by volunteers who are passionate about keeping the marathon going every year. This year's race is being organized by Dave Stonley and they are still seeking sponsors to help defray costs of the weekend, which run around $33,000 once T-shirts, medals, prizes, posters, meals, office and other expenses are accounted for. Of particular importance to the running of the race is the chip timing which ensures accurate race results for participants.

If you would like more information to participate or sponsor, contact Dave at 705-582-2061 or email info@masseymarathon.com. Their website is www.masseymarathon.com

 Helping you is what we do.

On February 23rd, in Frostproof, Florida a dog shot a man. I know. I know. You're as startled as I was when I first heard the news. Frostproof!!! A town in Florida named Frostproof!!! Like Sweatsoak, Alaska? Or Compromise, D.C.?

Gregory Lanier, 35 was driving along State Road 17 when his rambunctious bulldog accidentally kicked the trigger of a loaded 9 mm Beretta pistol lying on the floor of his Ford pick-up truck. The bullet went through his left calf, out the shin and lodged up in the driver's side door. After a thorough investigation of this near-tragic incident, Sebring police determined that the dog acted alone. The name of the alleged shooter cannot be released because he's under 126 in dog years.

Police from nearby Sebring labelled the shooting as 'accidental' even though Lanier had just left the Blue Crab Restaurant and – I do not want to get into motive or premeditation here but – the "doggie bag" belongs to the dog, okay. That's the rule. How many times can you put the leftovers on the dashboard before the dog, spotting the loaded gun at his feet, takes the law into his own paws.

Despite the fact the pistol was loaded and Lanier thought it wasn't, despite the loaded Martin XT.243 rifle, the empty .243 shell casings in the ashtray, two boxes of ammunition, several rounds of .308 bullets and green-tipped 'zombie killers' – despite all this weaponry found in his vehicle, Lanier was let go with a warning "to be more careful in securing his firearms."

In America where 307 million people possess 300 million guns (and those are the weapons with permits, the ones they know about) and in Florida where they brag about being the most heavily-armed state in the union – having all that weaponry discovered in your vehicle is like passing gas in church. Not pretty but also not illegal.

Lanier claimed he was just toolin' down the highway when all of a sudden: "BANG!" He immediately smelled smoke and felt burning in his lower left leg. It was at that point the dog jumped up on the passenger seat and stuck his head out the window as if nothing had happened, as if he hadn't even been down there on the floor when the gun went off. Apparently the dog maintained his innocence until the police finally drove off without laying charges and then he "snorgled" ... mockingly. I hate to repeat myself but leftovers secured in a "doggie bag" lawfully belong to the dog and he is not in any way responsible for the consequences resulting from a violation of that law. Period.

Bleeding badly and probably fearing for his life – "I know what you're thinking, punk. Was there one or were there two bullets in that Beretta? Go ahead. Make my day." – Lanier pulled over at a BP station where he applied paper towels to his wound and the attendant called 911.

President Obama used the Florida shooting to reiterate his stance on gun control and his plan for universal background checks on four-footed gun buyers who have mental health problems or harbour grudges against their owners.

In a quick and aggressive response, National Rifle Association Vice president Wayne LaPierre called a press conference to say: "The only thing that stops a bad dog with a gun is ("Who's a good dog!?! He's a good dog!??) a good dog with a gun."

Repeating his mantra that "guns don't kill, dogs do," LaPierre called for the installation of well-armed guards at the entrances of every vet clinic and boarding kennel in America.

"SPCA buildings where stray dogs and dogs with behavioral problems are housed should have two well-armed guards and they should be humans, not guard dogs with automatic weapons."

LaPierre noted that everybody lucked out this time. Endorsing a universal program in which every dog in America be armed, LaPierre explained that if it had been a pack of dogs in a crowded public area, say the Westminster Dog Show, the other dogs could have shot the shooter before more human life was taken.

"I will defend every American dog's right to the Second Amendment" said LaPierre, "and yes, I would even allow bears to bear arms. But only good bears like Yogi The Bear."

This dog-on-owner gun violence is not to be confused or even outdone by another incident, this time in St. Petersburg, Florida where a woman claims she was shot by an oven. And 18-year-old woman by the name of Aalaya Walker (I swear I do not make this stuff up!) was visiting her boyfriend JJ Sandy when she decided to preheat the oven in order to make late-night waffles. Not knowing that's where JJ keeps his bullets, Aalaya opened the hot oven and "BANG!" She was later treated at hospital for wounds to her legs and chest from bullet fragments for a .45 caliber Glock pistol.

While President Obama called for universal background checks on kitchen stoves, the NRA's Wayne LaPierre stated that while guns don't kill and bullets don't wound, under certain circumstances, ovens, freezers and even bread baskets can snuff out a human life in the blink of an eye. He then called for well-armed electricians and handymen to be stationed at every kitchen door in America.

Meanwhile in Frostproof, Florida Gregory Lanier is keeping his Beretta well away from Bingo and giving the dog pretty much everything he wants. Shame that it nearly cost him his life before he finally understood the man/dog relationship.

Espanola NOJHL Junior A Team Update

The NOHA and NOJHL have both granted their approval to establish an Espanola junior A hockey team. At this stage, only Hockey Canada approval is still pending. Season ticket sales to date stand at 102 and the goal is to sell 200 before April 30.

"We are all getting closer to formalizing the establishment of an NOJHL team in Espanola. Junior hockey today is big business and a huge financial investment where we have an ownership and management group prepared to make for the start of the upcoming season in Espanola this September. The Junior 'A' Hockey Club needs to know that we have the backing of the community to risk the investment," emphasizes NOJHL Franchise owner/governor Tim Clayden. Clayden met with residents last month urging those who would like to see junior A hockey in Espanola to buy their season tickets, "Our ownership and management group is in place and ready to go, we need the town and area junior hockey fans to show the same commitment by purchasing a season ticket. It's now up to Espanola and area junior hockey fans to decide if they really want junior hockey and for years to come back in the area providing some Friday Nights exciting, fast and entertaining junior hockey for all area junior hockey fans to enjoy and call their own home team."

A refundable deposit of $40 is required to reserve the season tickets and those who reserve now will be entered for a draw to win two tickets to the Central Canadian Championships in North Bay, or two Country Fest tickets. If you are interested, contact the Espanola Regional Recreation Complex or visit www.espanolajuniorhockey.com

Running Can Help Prevent Or Manage Arthritis

(NC)—For many committed runners, a diagnosis of arthritis can sound like a death sentence. It's natural to assume that you have to give up the activity you love in order to protect your joints from further damage.

Not so fast: there is growing evidence that running does not contribute to arthritis, and may actually help people delay the onset of arthritis and reduce its symptoms.

While there are many different kinds of arthritis, the form that most runners need to concern themselves with is osteoarthritis, where degeneration of the cartilage caused by twisting or tearing injuries leads to bone-on-bone contact and joint inflammation. Severe cases can require heavy medication or even joint replacement surgery.

“The motion of running does not lead to arthritis”, explains The Arthritis Society's Karen Gordon, a Registered Physiotherapist and herself an avid runner. “In fact, studies suggest lower incidence of degenerative arthritis among runners than among swimmers – even though swimming is often cited as a lower-impact alternative to running.”

With the proper technique, most runners don't experience the kinds of injuries that can lead to arthritis. A visit to your local running clinic for some tips on footwear and technique can go a long way to preventing those kinds of injuries.

If you already have arthritis in your hips, knees or feet, there may be hope for you too.

“Exercise is an important part of both prevention and management of arthritis” says Gordon. “Physical activity increases blood flow to the joints, which promotes healing. A properly designed exercise program may not only decrease your pain, but may also increase your flexibility and overall fitness –and it can do wonders for your state of mind, an important factor for someone living with the pain of arthritis.” A little stiffness and soreness after a period of inactivity is normal and should go away as you gradually become more active. Gordon suggests keeping your runs to moderate distance and pace – pushing yourself opens the door to greater risk of injury. If pain, heat or swelling in your joints persists or intensifies, talk with your healthcare provider as you may need to scale back your program.

And if running seems a bit ambitious at first, start off by walking. Taking part in an event like the Walk to Fight Arthritis on June 9th (www.walktofightarthritis.ca) will let you get some exercise while helping raise awareness and funds to combat arthritis in Canada.

“Listen to your body”, says Gordon. “If you can run pain-free, then you're good to go.

Mine Here, Process Here Says Michael Mantha

Michael Mantha MPP/député Algoma-Manitoulin

This week was an exciting week for me in the legislature as I was able to introduce my private members bill entitled Bill 43, “Mining Amendment Act (Resources Processed in Ontario)”.

Private members bills are an important function of the legislative process here in Ontario. They provide an opportunity for each member that is not a minister to introduce their own bill. These bills allow private members to bring matters of their concern, and the concern of their constituencies to the attention of the entire house in the form of a bill. This week I tabled my private members bill to be called for first reading, on an initiative I know will bring positive outcomes for Algoma-Manitoulin, and across the North. My bill, if enacted, would require companies that mine ore and minerals in Ontario to also process and refine the materials here. Currently, companies can apply for an exemption from exporting restrictions, allowing them to send raw material anywhere in the world to be processed. This change will generate enormous economic growth in the Ontario mining sector, and across the North.

This province not only has large deposits of minerals and ore, it also has the facilities and skilled workforce needed to process these raw materials right here at home.

We currently allow mining companies to take these natural resources from our own backyards, when we could be capitalising on the economic and employment potential of refining them here in Ontario. This change would make better use of Ontario's natural resources, existing infrastructure, and world-class workforce.

My private members bill will allow for the creation of jobs not only at mine sites, but at refining and manufacturing sites across the province, in addition to secondary support jobs. This initiative would help restore many of the jobs that have been lost in the hard-hit forestry and manufacturing sectors.

We have smelting facilities operating in Timmins, and steel production facilities operating in Hamilton and Sault Ste. Marie.

We have everything we need to become a central player in the North American steel market.

With a massive mining development being proposed in our province's far North, this is a perfect opportunity to not only grow the mining industry, but also re-invigorate the manufacturing industry in Ontario.

I look forward to the coming weeks when I will be presenting this bill for first reading. I hope that my colleagues on both the government side and opposition side will support this initiative and recognize that Northerners should receive a fair deal in exchange for our natural resources.

As always, please feel free to contact my office about this issue, or any other provincial matters. You can reach my constituency office by email at mmantha-co@ndp.on.ca or by phone at 705-461-9710/1-800-831-1899.

BREAK, ENTER, AND THEFT - On March 27, 2013, the Espanola Police Service received two separate complaints of daytime break and enters to local Espanola homes.

At 4:14 pm, police responded to a single family home located on Queensway St., after the owner returned home to find that at some point between 7:50 am and 4:00 pm, unknown person(s) entered the home by forcing a side door. Once inside, the culprit(s) removed jewelry, including a Swiss Army Tissot watch, and a small quantity of cash, before exiting.

At 5:35 pm, police responded to a second single family home on Whitney St., after the owner returned home to find that at some point between 7:30 am and 5:15 pm, unknown person(s) entered the home through an unlocked rear door. Recipe

If you like shrimp like I do, then you will enjoy this recipe. It's an easy and delicious recipe that is similar to shrimp scampi but baked, with less butter and a crispy, cheesy breading. If you're looking for something different to make or a dish to impress your guests, pick up a bag of shrimp and give this a try. I'm not a fan of lemon zest, so I leave it out and I didn't have fresh parsley so I added a tablespoon of dried parsley flakes.

Garlic Baked Shrimp

- 1 lb fresh, raw shrimp, deveined, peeled and tails removed
- 2 tsp butter, melted
- Juice from ½ a lemon
- 2 tsp parsley, finely chopped
- 2 tsp grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 tsp paprika
- 1/2 tsp lemon zest (optional)
- 4 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 cup corn flakes cereal, crushed
- Salt & pepper to taste

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. In a medium sized bowl, combine shrimp, lemon juice, garlic, paprika and salt & pepper. Pour into a small baking dish. In another bowl, combine cornflakes, butter, Parmesan cheese, lemon zest (optional) and parsley until it reaches a course, mealy consistency – just enough to evenly blend the ingredients.

Sprinkle cornflakes mixture over shrimp. Transfer to oven and bake until shrimp are pink and cooked through, about 10-12 minutes.

Kids Korner

This craft is the perfect spring craft for when the weather is not co-operating.

A Kite Craft

- Construction paper (blue for the sky and whatever colours you want your kite to be)
- Scissors
- Glue
- Cotton balls
- Markers
- Bowtie pasta

Draw some triangles on the coloured construction paper. Draw an outline of the kite on the blue paper. Have your child cut out the coloured triangles. For younger children you can have the triangles already cut out for them. Then match up the triangles with the corresponding empty spaces on the kite and glue them down. Squeeze some glue on the tail of the kite and glue the bowtie pasta along the tail. Glue clouds (cotton balls) around the kite.

Proper Car Care Will Protect Your Hard Earned Investment

(NC)—As Canadians put away their snow blowers, hats and gloves, there is no better time to protect their vehicle, which for most people, is their second largest investment. The harsh winter weather can take its toll, so proper cleaning and maintenance are key to staying on the road and not in the repair shop. To help prepare for those spring showers and changing road conditions, here are simple tips drivers should perform to keep their vehicles running efficiently this road trip season:

Change in Temperature Means Change in Inflation—Proper tire inflation is essential for increased automotive safety, optimum driving performance and significant cost savings, including better fuel efficiency (www.goodyear.ca). Tires should be inflated to the vehicle manufacturer recommendations printed on the vehicle door placard or in the glove box and should be checked monthly. Improper inflation can lead to premature or irregular tire wear, and under-inflation reduces a vehicle's fuel efficiency by an average of 3.3 percent.

Change Your Car's Shoes – Now is the time to change tires from winter to summer or all-season, if you haven't already. And for those in need of new tires for their vehicle, each tire in the Goodyear Assurance family meets the needs of drivers by offering confident all-season traction plus a relevant benefit that enhances the driving experience. This product lineup includes Assurance ComforTred Touring with refined handling and comfort, Assurance TripleTred All-Season with ultra-traction, and Assurance Fuel Max with fuel efficiency.

Breathe Free – You may be deeply breathing in that fresh spring air, but your car could still be choking on the salt, dust and sand it sucked in over the winter. Replacing your air filter improves air flow to the engine and increases engine performance and fuel efficiency, especially during warmer months.
