I'm Dreaming Of A Black Christmas

Black Christmas? That's actually the title of a funny book by the Daily Show's Lewis Black which also happens to capture the mood of this COVID-19 Christmas season. Yes, it's that special time of the year again when the world celebrates the birth of Jesus Christ and the bank account of Jeff Bezos. Yet, there are some interesting gifts out there this year. If you're shopping for someone you work with, Sweat-Absorbing Armpit Pads For Your Sweaty Coworker is a tad too rude. A four-pack of Dial Soap might be a nicer touch. And for the record, after all these years, a gift-wrapped can of Beano is funny to everyone except the guy who gets it. Days Of The Week Underwear may not be a glamour gift, but at least you'll know when the weekend arrives!

I'm not suggesting Prime Minister Justin Trudeau should send Chinese President Xi Jinping the all-new Super Creepy Revenge Voodoo Doll, but it might be our last hope of getting back the "two Michaels." Watch the pressure mount on Jinping as Trudeau first pushes "serious canker sores" and works his way down to "organ removals." When it comes to Christmas gifts, I usually go with books & booze and except for that one time when I mixed up the tags and my 10-year-old niece took a straw to her bottle of Jack Daniels — it has worked out pretty well.

At the end of a stressful year that has turned teetotalers into two fisters, I'm not surprised that alcohol-related gifts are at the top of many people's lists. Not only does a case of Niagara wine delivered at no charge to your door make a fine gift, it also keeps your photo off the "Hoarders Board" at your local LCBO. (Every Wednesday I put a note on my blue box full of empties. "Sorry, I just cleaned out the garage." And the driver signs it back, "Yeah, right.")

The Diamond Sterling, the world's most expensive bottle of tequila, is available for $3.5 million and please, have the checkout clerk double bag it for you. This tequila is so exclusive, the worm at the bottom of the bottle has had work done on its wrinkles.

There's also The Tippy Tree gift for $66 from which you can hang miniature bottles of everybody's favourite spirit. It comes with a really big candy cane to steady yourself at around midnight. (Made that last part up.)

With Christmas arriving at the same time as "surge two" of the coronavirus, giving books as gifts has become a lot trickier this year. Given the fact that you are not supposed to have anybody come to your house over the holidays, not even Santa, I'm guessing Jean Paré's book Entertaining For The Holidays is an all-time worstseller. What you lose on crowd you might gain on a couple with Jasmine Guillory's new book Party Of Two. Snark! The Herald Angels Sing and Boo Humbug are two books that will insure an early end to that party.

Although Punching The Air is billed an inspirational story for teens, what with this insidious virus enveloping us like a fog, I see nothing wrong with duking it out with our invisible enemy. For that special person in your family who before the COVID-19 lockdown never said anything more profane than 'dang', here comes Tis The Season To Be Swearly.

Be real careful with Martha Stewart's Cookie Perfection now that she and Snoop Dog (if there's a more unlikely friendship it would have to be Lady Gaga and the Pope!) are partners in the cannabis business.

People have been cooped up with their pets for so long this book title almost sounds possible: I Could Pee On This - And Other Poems by Cats. Similarly, with shelter-in-place boredom off the chart, The Joy Of Water Boiling may actually excite some people.

If anybody's buying a gift for Canada's Chief Public Health Officer, Dr. Theresa Tam, who initially claimed masks were not all that important, might I suggest a new audiobook by Beth Evans — I Really Didn't Think This Through.

Leah Johnson's You Should See Me In A Crown is the gift President Donald Trump wants most for Christmas as copies of Sarah Brabbs' So People Say You're An A-hole keep piling up on Rudy Giuliani's doorstep.

In what feels like a race in which the virus is trying to kill as many people as possible before the vaccine kills it, perhaps the one book we can all relate to is Chelsea Handler's Life Will Be The Death Of Me. For those of us who have quarantined alone, I Would Leave Me If I Could strikes a bit of a sad chord.

Although Do You Mind If I Cancel? by Gary Janetti is a satirical take on young royals, given the rising COVID-19 death rate in the province, I'll be sending a copy off to the staff here at Davidson's Funeral Home, where apparently, I'm 'pre-registered.'

And finally, based only on the title, if I could, I would send a copy of The Beautiful Ones off to every doctor, nurse, orderly and nursing home employee in this country. Have a merry, weary Christmas, folks. There is now a light at the end of the pandemic tunnel and no, it's not an unscheduled VIA Rail train.

Front Desk Clerk Position Part Of Job Shuffle At Espanola Town Hall

Espanola will no longer be the only municipality in Ontario without a person at the front desk.

Town CAO Cynthia Townsend says they had to change up some positions following the resignation of long-time employee Paula Roque, whose resignation came into effect on November 26th.

She says the council passed a motion to have her add the duties of Treasurer to her resume adding the Administrative Assistant will now become the Deputy Clerk. Townsend says she now also has authorization to hire a receptionist for the front desk.

She says both positions are now being advertised and she expects them to be filled soon.

The Town has been without a front desk person for several months following a motion by council not to fill the vacancy when long-time staffer Angela Kelly retired last year.

Whitefish River First Nation using modern mobile app for communication

Whitefish River First Nation has partnered with Aivia Design and Technology Engineering to develop an innovative, cross-platform mobile app for their band members.

Chief Franklin Paibomsai says the app will allow band administration to send out any vital information, especially COVID-19 updates, whether they live on or off-reserve.

He adds members can also fill out customized forms and surveys to provide feedback to band administrators.

Paibomsai says the Whitefish River First Nation app launched on Apple and Android phones and are available through the Apple App Store and Google Play.

Lions Toy Drive

By Grant Lewis - Agnes Michon, alias Mrs. Santa Claus, has once again outdone herself. For the past 26 years through illness and good times, Agnes has made, recycled and bought over 10,000 toys for the Lions Toy Drive. And this year her efforts have continued. The Lions Club is eternally grateful to this incredible lady whose energy, determination and love for her fellow man (especially children) knows no bounds. She represents the true spirit of Christmas. Agnes proudly shows her skill and love to a local Lions member Sue Cairns. Sue's comment was, "I can't believe this!" God bless you Agnes Michon.

By Grant Lewis - On the morning of Tuesday, December 15, five eager shoppers went on a toy buying spree for the Lions Toy Drive.

Who Has Been Painting The Rocks?

Travellers, walkers, tourists, and residents have found painted rocks throughout the North Shore corridor, but who painted them? Several individuals have taken on different projects during the pandemic to send out positive messages and one of them is Roselyn Andress of McKerrow.

Andress says she has painted over 600 rocks in the last nine months to help cheer up people and let them know they are not alone.

She says even with winter on its way, she plans to continue her painting adding she is glad to have left her mark on 2020 in such an unusual way.

Andress adds painting the rocks has led her to try her hand at drawing and abstract art.

“It was strange to me, but it started off as an idea in my head and then I had to put it on paper. It is very relaxing and fun. It started out to relieve stress, but now it is a great way to share with the community at large.”

Andress says the pandemic has created strange times and different behaviours, such as masking, staying apart.

“With the pandemic, it is important to go out of our way to be kind, even more so than ever before. It is also important for people to find something that is fun and relaxing. Together we will make it through this.”

“I know it is hard to share a smile wearing a mask, so I hope in my own small way, I have made someone feel better and look forward to the future with a positive outlook.”

The response to her artwork has been positive with some pieces now available for sale at Remedy’s RX, Rebound Therapeutic Services, and Dr. Laurenti’s Chiropractic office. As for the rocks, keep looking ... you might be lucky and find one!

Recipe

Are you looking for a last minute, easy to make, delicious cookie to make for Christmas? These are one of my favourites that my mom makes throughout the year. I stock up on peanut butter chips when I’m shopping at Walmart just to make these cookies.

Peanut Butter Clusters

- 2 cups peanut butter chips
- 1 cup milk chocolate chips
- 1 ½ cups dry roasted peanuts
- 1 cup crushed rippled potato chips

In a microwave-safe bowl, melt peanut butter chips and chocolate chips; stir until smooth. Stir in peanuts and potato chips. Drop by level tablespoonfuls onto waxed paper-lined baking sheets. Refrigerate until firm. Store in an airtight container.

With heavy hearts we announce the passing of

*Wellington
Bradley
Mowry*

on November 24th after a brief and unexpected illness.

Welly will be dearly missed by his loving wife Carrie-Lou, and his daughters Carrie-Ann (Jeff), Dawn (Steve) and Lacey (Chris). Papa to grandchildren Bradley, Abbie, Grace, Lillie, Mallory, Emily-Ann, Seth, Gerri, Pearl, and Olivia. Special brother to Verna, Jack, Gloria, Basil, and Marlin. Favourite brother-in-law and uncle to many nieces and nephews.

Although first and foremost a family man, Welly left a mark on everyone he met with his humour, patience, and generosity. His love of travel and music led him to countless festivals and concerts where he couldn't help but make new friends. He shared deep connections and lasting friendships with co-workers, and also his beloved co-op students who he took great pride in mentoring throughout his career. "The Welly" lived every day to the fullest and left behind no regrets.
