By Chloe Kneer - The Espanola Helping Hand Food Bank has a new Board of Directors to help fuel its growth. The food bank has been active since 2006 and remains viable through the generosity and support of the community and the thirty-eight volunteers who run it. Past president Claire Lajeunesse says, "This is a strong Board of Directors that will work the volunteers. I will be available to them in a consulting capacity." Lajeunesse recently stepped down, handing over the reins to Susan Krysanowski. The food bank now has constitution by-laws, is incorporated with the federal government, and has applied for its charity number in order

The Day I Threw An Airline Pilot Under The Bus

There's a YouTube video on the Net of the old TV show To Tell The Truth. Very popular in its day, it shows host Joe Garagiolo introducing the Great Imposter. The panel has to correctly select the Great Imposter from a line-up of three guys and two of them are not the real guy so they also are imposters. His deposition: "I Frank William Abagnale am known as the world's greatest imposter. In the course of my nefarious career I've pawned myself as a doctor, a lawyer, a stock broker and the pilot of a major airline. For six years I also cashed $2,500,000 in bad cheques in 26 countries. Ultimately I was sentenced to 72 years in prison; I served one year in France, one year in Sweden and four years in a federal prison in the United States. Parolled, I now devote my life to the prevention and detection of crime." In the spring of 2001 I filled in for the Great Imposter. Five hundred Canadian travel agents attended a conference in Cascais, Portugal and I was one of four speakers booked for the week-long conclave. Frank, who by this point in his life had gone from career criminal to motivational speaker was the keynote. Then there was Robert Sharma (The Monk Who Sold His Ferrari), Elaine Denby listed as a motivator/chiropractor ("get your life together or I'll manipulate your neck") and me. I even brought Frank's book Catch Me If You Can – The True Story Of A Real Fake for him to sign. Steven Spielberg had directed the movie Catch Me If You Can starring Leonardo DiCaprio and Tom Hanks. The movie grossed $352 million worldwide and it must have killed Frank not to have embezzled that too.

So the night before it all starts we're all tasting wine in a candlelit cavernous wine cellar up in the mountains of Sintra when the event meeting planner came up to me, white as a ghost.

"Frank Abagnale," she said breathlessly. The Great Imposter? He's a 'no show'."

"Oh, no," I said, feeling her pain. "Now you're our keynote speaker. You go on tomorrow morning."

"Oh, no," I said, feeling my own pain. "Absolutely," I said. "I'll do whatever it takes." Looking back I realize I was too stupid to say: "How much were you paying Frank?"

Frank had given some lame excuse about being turned back by the airline in Chicago because he tried to use his own Air Mile points to fly to Lisbon.

I suppose if you've surgically removed a guy's spleen while holding a doctor's operating manual in your other hand, then ripping the heart out of a meeting planner is not such a big deal.

The travel people were noticeably not happy about this and tomorrow morning I could well become their target of disappointment. So I rejigged my speaking notes and led off with a new presentation titled: "Bury Frank."

So there I was standing in front of 500 disgruntled conference goers substituting for Frank Abagnale who even today remains Number One on the list of the World's Most Successful Con Men. Honest. Charles Ponzi who invented the "Ponzi scheme" and was Bernie Madoff's mentor is number two. (And no, I checked, Benny Hinn didn't even crack the top ten.)

"Thank you for coming out this morning, I hope you're not too disappointed that you get to hear me speak and not Mr. Abagnale because frankly I have spent very little of my life in jail."

A few people found humour in this. My mother would have been very proud.

"Yes, I've lived a very sheltered life. I mean in the 70's while Frank was screwing over good people like you, I was just trying to pay off my student loan."

They were coming around, nodding in agreement.

"And believe me, if I'd have known you could write cheques on other people's bank accounts, I could have paid those loans off a lot sooner."

And then we were off to the races.

"Frank claims he couldn't get on his flight here to Lisbon but really, you would think a guy who impersonated an airline pilot would be able to read a boarding pass."

"I'm sure Frank is a great motivator and would have made a fine keynote speaker but the good news is when you shake my hand later, your watch will still be on your wrist."

"Seriously, I'm sure Frank's a great guy and it's a shame that when he goes to Sunday dinner, the in-laws still lock the silver in the trunk of the car."

Oh yeah, I was relentless ... and it worked. All humour needs is a victim and the guy who disappointed 500 people with a lame excuse about his Air Mile points was perfect. March 28, 2001, the day I threw a phoney airline pilot under the proverbial bus. And believe me, the people at that conference who had come especially to hear Frank speak, they wished it had been a Greyhound instead of a 'proverbial' bus.

Home Security Begins With You: Preventing Home Break-ins

Spring seems to be around the corner, but many of us in the north are heading for warmer locations to get a break from the snow and cold. Getting a break, however, can also lead to a break-in at your home while you are away. Here are some tips to help you avoid having your home burglarized, whether you are in town or not.

First, it is a myth that most residential break-ins happen at night. In fact, most residential break-ins actually happen during the day, when the majority of people are not at home.

Our natural instinct is to think about ways to keep the burglar out, such as upgrading our locks or installing an alarm system. When assessing a property from the street, most thieves do not focus on the type of lock you have. Instead, criminals look for opportunities that improve chances for success. In the case of residential homes, burglars look for:

- Excessive amounts of landscaping and solid wood fences that help them hide from the neighbours
 - Indications that you, the owner, may be away including the presence of flyers, newspapers, unshovelled driveways, lawns in need of maintenance, the absence of a car that is usually parked in the driveway, or the absence of appropriate lighting.
- There are many things you can do to protect your home, such as clear views of all windows and doors (not obscured by bushes or a high fence), ensure that newspapers/mail and flyers are collected, the driveway is shovelled and lawn is cut when away. Also, leave lights on timers, both inside or outside when away, install deadbolt locks to all your exterior doors, windows with a single locking device should have a secondary security feature, a safety box for valuables is a good idea. It should be stored in an isolated area of your home. Store your keys in an out-of-sight location and advise your neighbours when you're away.

EHFHB is becoming a registered charity. Our charter has been prepared and the first executive elections were held at the annual general meeting in March. This process has been very exciting for our member volunteers. One of the benefits of being a recognized charity is increased opportunities to apply for grant monies. The MNR's food drive in March was very successful and the food bank received generous donations of food and money. Thanks to the staff of the MNR and all of you who supported the drive.

By Chloe Kneer - Budget presentations and deliberations continue in Espanola as the town wrestles with its financial health. The looming repayment of $4 million in back taxes to Domtar has forced the administration and council to look at every means possible of cutting expenditures in order to avoid a sharp increase in property taxes to cover the bill.

Residents were happy to hear that the decision was made to sell two properties that the town currently owns: the building where Cambrian College is housed across from the municipal offices and the so-called "doctor's house" on Second Avenue.

It was also decided that an independent service review will be carried out, likely at a cost of $15-25,000, and that the strategic plan will be complete. Budget cuts include: print and television advertising budgets have been nixed; public works will see a reduction in the hiring of student workers from 14 to 8; mayor and council car allowances will no longer be paid; honorariums to council-appointed board members will no longer be paid; Espanola will request that all communities in the hospital catchment area contribute to doctor recruitment costs. In addition, the Sudbury and District Health Unit will be asked to identify where surplus municipal contributions are spent. If the town is not satisfied with the expenditure, they may demand a refund of overpayments. Mayor and council salary concessions were addressed in-camera.

The fire department's budget was accepted as was the police budget, though a review with the police services board is yet to be scheduled.

The recreation budget is to be reviewed on April 9. Clerk-Treasurer/Administrator Cynthia Townsend says she hopes the budget will be finalized by the end of April.

In The Loop

In a letter on the Town of Espanola website, Mayor Lehoux asked that residents work together as a team to protect our image of being a community of choice. The Espanola Citizen Group Executive has accepted this invitation.

To assist in finding long-term solutions for Espanola we have scheduled a Town Hall Meeting for April 18 at 7:00 p.m. at the KC Hall. We have invited the Mayor and Council and have asked Mayor Lehoux to be the Introductory Speaker.

Guest Speaker Irene Callaghan from Northeastern Manitoulin and the Islands Ratepayers Association (NEMI) has agreed to explain how her group and council have managed to accomplish this feat and then she will take questions from the audience. The ideas which they have found beneficial should help us attain our goal as a community which works together.

For more information on this, the town budget meetings, and other "Outside the Box" ideas and suggestions, like our Facebook page and visit our website at www.espanolacitizengroup.ca

Recipe

Are you looking for a recipe to use up the last of your Easter ham? This is a "quiche" like recipe without the hassle of making pastry. It's great for a quick meal or to serve at a brunch.

Ham & Onion Crescent Squares

- 8 oz. can Pillsbury Crescent Dinner Rolls
- 3/4 cup shredded Swiss cheese
- 3/4 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese
- 1 egg, beaten
- 3/4 cup milk
- 1 cup diced fully cooked ham
- 5 chopped green onions

Heat oven to 375° F. Separate crescent dough strips and place in an ungreased 13 x 9 pan; press over bottom and 1/2 inch up sides to form a crust, sealing separated strips. Sprinkle cheeses over the dough. Combine the egg and milk and pour over the cheeses. Sprinkle the onions and ham evenly over the top. Bake at 375° F for 22 to 28 minutes or until crust is deep golden brown and the filling is set. Cool for 5 minutes; cut into squares.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Rainy Day Umbrella Craft

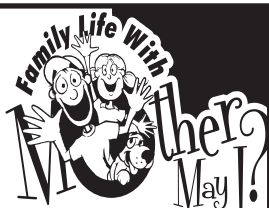

- construction paper (any light colour)
- blue paper
- scissors
- cupcake liners
- paint or markers
- glue
- tape
- pipe cleaners

Start by having your child paint or decorate the cupcake liners with markers. Cut out some big fat raindrops out of the blue paper. Put some glue dots on the paper and add the rain drops. Fold the cupcake liners in half or cut them in half. Bend the pipe cleaners to look like an umbrella handle and add the pipe cleaner handles to the back of the umbrella with tape. Glue your umbrellas to the construction paper and let dry.
