Beautiful Blooms:
Espanola Horticultural Society Show Coming

By Grant Lewis - This summer, the Canadian performances at the Pan Am games is a tough act to follow for any organization. Yet, the Espanola Horticultural Society will attempt to do just that. Instead of boxing, triple jump, relays, swimming, basketball etc., there will be annuals, foliage, design perennials and vegetables. And you don't have to travel to Toronto, only to the local Espanola Royal Canadian Legion. Plus you don't have to worry about those HOV lanes. Join local Espanola gardeners as they put their best faces and plants forward. Why go to a flower and vegetable show anyway? Good question. First you get to see why so many of your neighbours have worked so hard all summer to make our community a more beautiful place. Blooms are cut, foliage is washed and

Ah Summer - The Sizzle Of The Bbq And The Smell Of Burning Hair.

Men cooking over fire is an ancient custom predating iron, the invention of the wheel and the birth of Hazel McCallion. Two million years ago Homo habilis, an erect primate roamed the southern hemisphere of the earth. Homo habilis operated primitive tools which he dragged behind him in a wheel-less cart. Strips of animal skins wrapped around the waist had not yet been invented so that the bottom half of his woolly mammoth outfit revealed a fair bit of butt crack. His nickname was 'All Thumbs.'

Homo habilis's brain had the reasoning capacity of an American Idol judge which enabled him to create fire to both heat his cave and roast mammals that were slower afoot than himself. He employed a vocabulary of five words: "Fire good" and "little fella tasty." These were good times for prehistoric humans. Man hunted and fire-cooked what he caught, woman gathered wood and fashioned bulky clothes from animal skins. Man cooked everything that moved, the minute it didn't. Woman went into the cave's kitchen after the meal and did the sticks and stones.

Man could cook because man invented fire. Only a man would sit for several days rubbing two sticks together and expecting something to happen. One day it did! And after suffering near-fatal burns to most of his body, he couldn't wait for it to happen again. Man created fire on the same day woman discovered laughter. Once she laughed so hard she cracked a rib watching him throw rocks across a sheet of ice for no particular reason.

In H. G. Wells' A Short History Of The World he describes fire as "that mysterious phenomenon that cooks man's food, heats his cave and keeps him alive." He goes on to describe a scene of a caveman smashing two rocks together, trying to create a spark to start a fire of dried grass. Even when another caveman comes by with a lit torch they cannot get the rocks hot enough to produce a spark so they all froze to death ending that era of the Cro-Magnon species.

So the importance of fire, then and now cannot be ... oh, sorry that scene was actually from Mel Brooks skit "How Man Invented Fire" and why the earliest species of man died off because they were just too stupid to live.

Although he could still not get his head around the concept of the wheel, Homo habilis invented a thing called the "pocket fisherman" which brought more variety to the meals. Then the earth began to warm up, much like today and they needed to wear less animal skins. Women started to do the cooking wearing two-piece marmot skins over ferret fur thongs. Man's vocabulary expanded from "fire good" to "woman hot" and "little fella overcooked." Foreplay involved a headlock.

When man did the cooking, mostly on weekends, he now drank large quantities of fermented mead which was not helpful. The meat on the fire was not burned, he protested but cooked "Cajun." Nobody believed him. When man could no longer complete the simple task of roasting meat over fire, false idols appeared selling new methods of cooking like the Cro-Foreman Grill and wood-fired rotisserie ovens in which the spit was turned by a treadmill of running gerbils which later doubled as appetizers alongside a tree-resin dipping sauce.

Having failed at the one thing he was good at, he desperately tried to recapture his prowess as the great preparer of food. Ordinary flames were no longer enough, he tried heated rocks to cook carcass and later cedar planks for salmon. Still, barbaric man had lost his touch; his simple gift of searing meat over flame was gone.

Delusional, he began to drink heavily both during the cooking session and the meal. He tried drinking Mead Lite to lose weight, but still he outweighed his prey and could no longer outrun them. For at least two ages, ice and iron and I think stone, he had to order in.

Desperately he tried cooking over chunks of carbon and eventually jets of bison methane that burned under strips of steel bars. Sometimes he would fall into the flames and the drink in his hand would splash all over the food. He said he was inventing the art of "basting." Nobody believed him. One evening he became so frustrated man rammed a full can of mead into the first thing he could get his hands on ... a chicken. Woman came running when she heard the shrieking of the chicken in the fire. Man claimed he had invented a new BBQ apparatus called "Mead Can Chicken." Nobody believed him, not even the chicken. Nonetheless he continued to cook meat over fire and today, fourteen million years later, man and several dozen like him have their own grilling shows on cable TV. That's how we got to where we are today. So be kind when you get a whiff of burning hair as your husband comes in with the platter of meat. It's not his fault. It's hereditary.

Beautiful Blooms:

designs are put together so all can strut their stuff. Maybe not as exciting as the 4x100 relay races but a wonderful sight to behold. This year's design theme is our national anthem! Also a show like this will demonstrate new trends in gardening. Within the last ten years, emphasis has leaned towards perennials rather than annuals. Here is the perfect opportunity to see new specimens which are available to everyone.

If you are wondering what to put in your new beds for next year, come on out and see and ask questions. This year at 1:00 p.m., two judges will be conducting quick tours of the show, outlining what exactly makes a healthy specimen and how to grow them.

Admission is free and the doors open at 12:30 p.m. Dessert, tea and coffee will be available for $5.00. So, beautiful flowers, fabulous designs and perfect vegetables will be on show Saturday, August 15 at the Legion. Better still why not show off your own garden and enter. Show books are available by calling 705-865-3005. The book outlines exactly all the categories for annuals, perennials, vegetables and design. Plus there are categories for photography! So there is something for everybody. There is a category for gardens, garden beds and curb appeal. You don't have to be a member to have your garden bed or front yard entered, but should be nominated by a member. Let the Horticultural Society know by August 8 so the judge knows where to go. Entries for the show, however, should be at the Legion on Friday August 14 between 6:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. The Horticultural Society promises an interesting, fun and informative afternoon. Bring a friend.

A Northern Ontario Summer Tradition:
The Massey Fair Is Coming!

The north's largest agricultural fair, the Massey Fair, is coming the weekend of August 28-30. Each year, more than 10,000 people attend to take in the livestock and horse shows, petting zoo, midway, entertainment (including the demolition derby on Friday night) and more. This year the fair is proud to bring Cindy Cook from the Polka Dot Door and the band Drive, who will be playing Friday and Saturday nights. Jimmy the Hypnotist will also perform Friday and Saturday. The complete fair schedule will be included in the Around&About later this month. For updates, like the Massey Agricultural Society Facebook page.

Cadet Camp Was A Great Summer Experience

By LS Kyle Preuss - This summer I was given the opportunity to represent my Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps 357 Hero of Espanola at HMCS Ontario's General Training Camp in Kingston. I felt both honoured and lucky to have had this chance. I attended camp for the first two weeks of July, then attended a graduation where we were all recognized for our learning and accomplishments. I received a gold medal for fitness and an expert marksman award. The general training program is a two-week camp that introduced me to all aspects to cadet camp life. At camp, I was introduced to all the programs available at HMCS Ontario. We had instruction in music and band, sailing, seamanship, marksmanship and drill and ceremony. We also spent time each day on physical training and completed fitness testing near the end of camp. Now that I have completed general training camp, I may be given opportunities to advance to three-week and six week camps in an area of specialization. My favourite aspect of camp was sailing and I hope to next year be able to attend a three-week basic sail camp. At general training summer camp, I had the chance to form great friendships with people I plan to stay in contact with. Camp life is busy and demanding but tons of fun and offers so much knowledge and experience. I wouldn't miss another chance to attend HMCS Ontario for the world! To find out more about or sign up for cadets, come to the Royal Canadian Legion in Espanola beginning September 9 from 6:00 - 9:00 p.m. Cadets meet every Wednesday night at the Legion and everyone is welcome.

Recipe

This is a quick and easy salad that always gets rave reviews and requests for the recipe. It's perfect for hot summer days, potlucks or holiday meals. It's delicious as it is, or you can crumble feta or goat cheese on top before serving.

Cranberry Spinach Salad

- ❖ 3/4 cup slivered almonds
- ❖ 1 pound spinach, rinsed and torn into bite-size pieces
- ❖ 1 cup dried cranberries (Craisins)
- ❖ 2 tablespoons sesame seeds
- ❖ 1 tablespoon poppy seeds
- ❖ 1/4 cup white sugar
- ❖ 2 teaspoons minced onion (or green onion diced fine)
- ❖ 1/4 teaspoon paprika
- ❖ 1/4 cup white wine vinegar
- ❖ 1/4 cup cider vinegar
- ❖ 1/2 cup olive oil
- ❖ Feta or goat cheese (optional)

Toast the sesame seeds and almonds in the oven at 350 for 10 minutes or until lightly browned. In a large bowl, combine the spinach with the toasted almonds and cranberries.
