Espanola 2016 Budget Overview

By Chloe Kneer – Espanola Town Council read through the first draft of the 2016 budget at a special meeting on January 19. CAO Cynthia Townsend gave an overview, citing some of the challenges going forward, amongst them being the continued tax burden shift from the industrial and commercial classes to the residential ratepayer. Townsend presented a list of over $2.5 million of “at risk” tax revenues, which is due to pending industrial and commercial reassessments that are now before the Assessment Review Board (ARB). An ARB decision to reduce Domtar’s assessment a few years ago resulted in the town having to repay over $4 million in taxes to the paper manufacturer. The other challenge that isn’t unique to Espanola is the decline in provincial grants. For example, the Ontario Municipal Partnership Fund (OMPF) grant was decreased by nearly $71,000, and the power dam grant of $797,000 is in jeopardy in coming years. Increasing apportionment costs for the Manitoulin-Sudbury District Services Board and the Sudbury and District Health Unit (both of which are dictated, not controlled by the town) are also budgetary concerns. In 2009-2010, Espanola was deemed “high risk” for not being able to meet its financial obligations. Because of this, Townsend explained that the municipality has instituted a reserve policy, whereby funds are allocated for expenses such as election expenses (every 4 years) and winter maintenance costs, which can vary greatly from year to year. With the mild winter we’ve had this year, Townsend says any unused funds in the 2015 budget will be moved forward to the coming year. The town currently has $4.5 million in reserves, but that money won’t stay in the coffers for long, as $2.1 million will be used for capital projects including the water and sewer line project at Algoma and Annette Streets. The town’s water tower needs to be relined and there is money being transferred to the fire department fund for a possible upcoming capital project at the fire hall.

Also at the meeting, Clerk/Manager of Planning Services Paula Roque explained to council that the municipal building at 100 Tudhope Street is in need of repairs totalling $105,000. The offices need new windows, attic insulation and brick sill plates. Council will have to decide whether or not to include the items in the budget.

As it stands, the municipal levy will increase by 3.4%. Department heads will present to council at future budget meetings and that figure may change. Check the Around&About website (www.aroundandabout.ca) or the Around&About Facebook page for more details.

Budi's Bastille & Brunch - Now That's A Freakin' Jail

Indonesia is a country with a serious drug problem and a simple justice system. They put drug traffickers to death by firing squad. At least they did until very recently when international pressure caused them to suspend the execution of death row drug dealers.

Despite this sort of ruthless policy of killing criminals that would not be out of place in Texas, Indonesia's jails are still awash in drugs due to the high rate of corruption among prison officials. So Indonesia needed a new plan to rid the county of drug traffickers while at the same time keeping them away from unscrupulous jail guards. Meet Budi Waseso, Indonesia's "take no prisoners" anti-drug czar. In no time at all, Budi came up with the idea for a guard-less prison in which the inmates would be housed in buildings on a man-made island surrounded by a moat. Not just any moat but one, according to Budi, filled with "the most vicious crocodiles I can find on earth." The inmates of the Alcatraz-style prison will have to fend for themselves because no guards are allowed on the island. The thinking here is that in Indonesia, jail officials can easily be bribed. Hungry crocodiles snapping at your heels, not so much. (Apparently, Nancy Reagan's "Just say 'no' to drugs" campaign did not work there either!) Budi announced his plans for the new jail at one of his frequent drug burnings where 270 kilos of crystallized methamphetamine knows as "ice" were incinerated while the six suspected importers from China looked on. Looking forward to waters infested with crocodiles would normally be a mouth-watering experience for men who come from a country where they eat everything except moving vehicles, but not today. Said Budi as he ignited the pile of dope: "Ice must be destroyed so that it does not grow feet and walk out of police storage." Rather elegant wording and none too subtle.

Not a man to be trifled with, after Budi Waseso was mocked in the media for his croc stockade he redesigned his prison blueprint to include a circular strip of land around the moat that would be a free-range run for wild tigers. "The most vicious on earth," of course. Now on a roll, he added a second moat around that strip of land that would be stocked with piranha. So in case you're keeping score - that's a hundred prisoners a prowling, fifty crocs a swimming, forty tigers patrolling and ten thousand piranhas in a circular sea of red.

If one more reporter makes one more crack about Budi's Bastille & Brunch, he will expand his plan to include a public park full of grazing grizzly bears, mounds of mating gaboona vipers and a cauldron of scaly and taloned Velociraptors that can swim, fly or walk on land where they feed mainly on jugular veins. (Donald Trump is considering a similar system of punishment for Americans with unpaid parking tickets.)

By the time Budi's prison plan is approved by the government of Indonesia, drug traffickers now off of death row will be respectfully requesting the firing squad. No opening date for the prison has been set, but ticket scalpers are standing by. I'm not a fan of magic, but I would definitely pay to watch David Copperfield and David Blaine use every trick in their book to make their way across two murderous moats and a path where tigers are not impressed by quarters being pulled from behind their ears. I'd pay double the admission fee to see Uri Geller navigate a waterway teaming with piranha brandishing a fork he recently bent with his mind.

As ridiculous as Budi's Brig & Feeding Center might sound, in a country like Canada where justice for heinous crimes is too often administered by a slap on the wrist, I kind of like the idea.

For instance, Vince Li who viciously beheaded a fellow passenger on a Greyhound Bus near Portage la Prairie, Manitoba in the summer of 2008 has been granted unsupervised day pass from a mental hospital in Winnipeg. Given the nature of his crime against a 22-year-old innocent victim, I don't think Vince should be headed for life in a group home. I would like to see Vince Li standing on the shores of Budi Waseso's island prison dipping his toe in the moat and muttering to himself: "I don't see no damn crocodiles. Maybe today's my lucky day."

I don't know why taxpayers should be footing the bill to keep Paul Bernardo, Clifford Olson and Russell Williams alive and well in protected custody. I think criminals of that ilk should be given all-inclusive package vacations to Budi Waseso's Slammer-By-The-Sea. Hell, we could even bet on them from the comfort of our own homes. "Twenty bucks the piranha takes down Paul in less than a minute and oh man, that tiger came out of nowhere! Look over there! Here come the grizzlies! Run Russell! Run!"

Just as crocodiles can't be bribed, tigers and piranhas have never been accused of ethical correctness. What's wrong with old-fashioned death by lunch? If Mutual of Omaha's Wild Kingdom taught us anything at all, it was that in a natural and primitive environment, surrounded by bigger, faster animals – man is but an hors d'oeuvre.

And The Award Goes To...

Over the last few years, the Town of Espanola has awarded funds to local businesses for the purpose of improving the facades of their store fronts. The Espanola Horticultural Society is now recognizing those improvements with its first ever "Beautification Award" (for lack of a better term, according to Grant Lewis). The business receiving the inaugural honours is Cutie Paws Dog Grooming. Owner Lorrie Lachance-Ellis loves decorating and spends many hours improving the looks of her shop indoors as well as out. She seasonally updates her outdoor décor, spring, summer, fall, winter, often balancing herself on a ladder, drill in hand, to make sure the laneway where her shop is located, is welcoming and inviting to her clients. Congratulations to Cutie Paws and thank you for your efforts in beautifying the uptown business core of Espanola.

OPP And OFSC Say Snowmobile Safely

The Ontario Provincial Police and the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs (OFSC) promoted Provincial Snowmobile Safety Week last week with a message for snowmobilers to focus on their own personal safety and the well-being of others. Riding within the law and making smart choices is the only way to ensure an enjoyable ride that gets you home safely to your family at the end of the day.

The OPP and OFSC remind snowmobile enthusiasts to stay off the lakes and waterways for the time-being as conditions are generally poor in many parts of the province.

Stay on OFSC prescribed trails and don't ride impaired, speed or ride after dark. Last winter, the OPP investigated 15 snowmobile-related fatalities, a decrease from the previous two winters (21 in the 2013-14 season and 18 in the 2012-13 season). While the OPP and OFSC are relieved to see fewer lives lost, data clearly indicates that riding impaired, speeding and riding after dark continue to be major contributing factors in snowmobiling incidents:

- 58 per cent of snowmobile-related fatalities involved alcohol or drugs;
- 57 per cent involved speeding

or riding too fast for conditions;

- 58 per cent occurred at dusk or after dark.

In particular, the OPP and OFSC are looking to middle-aged males to ride with extra care and control this winter as 87 per cent of last season's snowmobile-related fatalities involved male riders and 58 per cent were riders or passengers between the ages of 35 and 54. They also caution all snowmobilers about avoiding road running wherever possible. Where snowmobiling on the side of a public road is legal and necessary to access trails, you should always:

- adjust your speed to the conditions;
- watch out for parked vehicles and motor vehicles emerging from driveways;
- always give motor vehicles the right of way;
- be extra cautious when approaching intersections;
- observe and respect all traffic signs;
- slow down wherever snow banks obstruct your view.

The motoring public is being reminded to watch for snowmobiles along roads or those that cross roads at snowmobile trails. The OPP is committed to saving lives on Ontario's highways, trails and waterways through the reduction of preventable injury and death. Initiatives are developed and delivered through the Provincial Traffic Safety Program.

The OFSC is committed to proactive leadership in promoting safe, responsible riding, on and off Ontario snowmobile trails, by building safer snowmobiling knowledge, attitudes and behaviours through rider education, safety legislation development and enforcement.

Sagamok To Host REDress Project

2014, the REDress Project was installed at the Canadian Museum of Human Rights. Since that time, the project has gone nationwide, with others hosting their own REDress exhibitions in order to bring awareness and create a call to action for a national inquiry into missing and murdered Indigenous women.

This year, the national day of action is Sunday, February 14. In recognition of this, a special event will take place at the Multi-Ed Centre in Sagamok with guest speaker Gladys Radek. Radek will share her personal journey of a loved one missing, and her advocacy for justice and a national inquiry. All Sagamok community members are being encouraged to hang a red dress outdoors and take a picture of it to display at the presentation, which is open to everyone.

Ladies who plan to attend the event are being asked to wear a red dress and men to wear a red tie in honour of the missing and murdered women and men. The film Highway of Tears will be shown and a light lunch served. The event is being held from 10:00 a.m. – 2:00 p.m. For more information on how to participate or to pre-register, call Donna at 705-865-2387.

OK TIRE

Recipe

You can't go wrong with a chocolate and peanut butter combination dessert. Everybody loves this brownie. You can double the recipe to make a 9 x 13 pan, and I suggest that you might want to do that because it will be gobbled up in no time. Delicious with a cold glass of milk.

Chocolate Peanut Butter Brownies

Brownie:

- 2 squares of unsweetened chocolate
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup of flour

Frosting:

- ½ cup icing sugar
- ½ cup peanut butter
- ¼ cup butter
- 2 to 3 tbsp milk

Drizzle:

- 1 square of semi-sweet chocolate
- 1 tbsp butter.

Grease and flour an 8 x 8 square pan. In a small saucepan over low heat, melt the 2 squares of unsweetened chocolate with the butter, and let cool. When cooled add the 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar and ½ cup of flour and mix well. Pour into prepared pan and bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Take out of oven and cool. Meanwhile prepare the frosting by creaming together the icing sugar, peanut butter, butter and milk. Spread frosting on cooled brownie. Melt the 1 square of semi-sweet chocolate with the 1 tbsp of butter and drizzle over top of the brownie. Once the drizzle has set, cut brownie into squares.
