certificate program and academic merit, enhanced academic advising and planning through their postsecondary studies and shorter and more cost-effective routes to combining college and university credentials.

"Our new pathways agreement with Cambrian College makes getting a university degree more accessible for Northern Ontario students," said Dr. Craig Chamberlin, President of Algoma University. "We are thankful for being able to work with such a good partner as Cambrian College, who shares our belief in student-centred learning."

"We are pleased to establish this agreement with Algoma University that will benefit our students and graduates across a variety of disciplines," said Bill Best, Cambrian College President. "Our partnership maximizes credit transfer, streamlines admission, and offers greater choice for students who wish to pursue college and university credentials in Northern Ontario."

Edge Of The Box Theatre And Movement For Autism Coming To Espanola

Last fall, Theresa Laurenti developed a program called Edge of the Box Theatre and Movement for Autism/Special Needs. The pilot project was eight weeks long and ran in Sudbury. Espanola's Dennis Lendrum volunteered for the program and was amazed. In turn, he and Laurenti have been working together to put on a similar series in Espanola. That dream has now come to fruition. Starting October 3, those dealing with autism on a daily basis can participate locally in this highly touted program, which allows the children to be themselves and express themselves through art, performance and dance, building confidence and skills. Laurenti and Lendrum are still in the process of securing sponsors, so if you or your business would like to be part of the "movement," please contact Lendrum at 705-869-9135. He is accepting donation cheques, made payable to Inner Connections, at 182 Syroid Street, Espanola, ON.

To see how this program benefited those who took part, join the Facebook group Edge of the Box Theatre and Movement for Autism/Special Needs. The Around&About will have updates as well.

Dual Citizens Must Carry Canadian Passport To Travel By Air

live in Canada, but have been travelling by air on your American passport, you will now have to apply for a Canadian passport in order to return home instead. For now, cross-border travel by car isn't affected.

The 2011 Census approximated that roughly 3% of Canadians (just under a million people) hold multiple citizenships.

The most frequently reported being U.S., U.K., France and Poland. Many feel that the new rules are discriminatory and only amount to a cash grab by the Canadian government. Passport fees in Canada run $120 for five years or $160 for ten.

If you plan to travel this winter, it is best to apply as soon as possible, as the estimated time to secure your new passport is forty days.

Canadian citizens who hold dual citizenship with another country must prepare for new travel rules that take effect at the end of this month. The Canadian government is in the final phase of its move to an electronic screening system aimed at stepping up border security. The system, called eTA, will not recognize other countries' passports as proper identification when travelling by air to Canada if the passport holder is a dual citizen. In other words, if you are Canadian and American,

Americans Are Quite Curious About Canada

Recently two popular online news sites in the United States, namely Buzz Feed and The Huffington Post published a series of questions Americans ask about Canada.

Apparently Americans are quite curious about the big, cold country on their northern border even if they can't find it on a map. Although Americans seem quite eager to ask about Canada, they're not all that keen to actually visit our country with same-day car trips at an all-time low. More than half of all Americans still do not possess passports. Here then are some of the questions our neighbours to the south are asking about "We The North." The answers, I'm sad to say, are mine.

Question: I have never seen it warm on Canadian TV, so how do the plants grow?

Answer: With the average annual temperature of minus 78° Greenwich Mean, all plants and vegetables in Canada are fabricated from semi-edible plastic. With no root system, weeding the garden is a breeze but malnutrition has become a bit of a problem.

Question: Do you have toilet paper in Canada?

Answer: No, but we never seem to run out of maple leaves.

Question: Do they have the Fourth of July up there?

Answer: We do, but given the difference in the Central Time Zone, we have to celebrate it three days earlier on July 1st. We do however have really long wicks on our fireworks so they go off at the same time as yours do.

Question: Where can I go to see the Queen?

Answer: The Queen welcomes tourists for high tea everyday except Sunday at Buckingham Palace in London, Ontario. Don't forget to salute. Tours of Prince Harry's model train collection are also open to the public.

Question: Are there any ATM's in Canada?

Answer: Not yet. We are, however, bringing our banking system online so that when you change your American dollars into gold dust at the airport, the currency exchange rate on the weight scales will appear digitally.

Question: Can I buy a souvenir Toonie for $10 American?

Answer: Even better, I can sell you two Loonies for $20 US.

Question: Which direction is north in Canada?

Answer: Oddly enough, north points in the same direction in Canada as it does in the United States. I say "oddly" because no matter which direction the needle points in America, your country is going south ... and in a hurry.

Question: Where can I buy totem pole seeds in Canada?

Answer: Minor Brothers Seed & Feed in Wainfleet, Ontario. Plus they have a nice selection of gifts for special occasions.

Question: Why do you sell milk in bags?

Answer: Because if the milk is sour, the bag serves as a vomit receptor.

Question: Will I be able to see polar bears in the streets in Canada?

Answer: Not just yet, but as the Arctic Circle melts and floods, pretty soon you'll be able to see polar bears on streetcars in Toronto. Mayor John Tory sees it as a natural solution to the city's raccoon problem.

Question: Isn't Justin Bieber Canadian?

Answer: No, no way. Ryan Gosling is Canadian. William Shatner is Canadian. Pamela Anderson is Canadian. Just Bieber is British, from Brixton I believe.

Question: Are there supermarkets in Toronto?

Answer: Canada's commerce operates on the division of goods and services principle. So yes, there are supermarkets in Toronto, but the grocery carts are located in Hamilton. Also the Coupon Clipping Centre is in Bracebridge. Look, let's keep it simple: Deposit $1,000 US in my PayPal account and I'll send you the Canadian Unlimited Grocery Card whereby you can obtain free food anywhere in the country for two weeks including private residences.

Question: How do you get Lake Louise to turn so blue?

Answer: Forty-five million Ty-D-Bol toilet pucks.

Question: Can I walk from Hamilton to Toronto by just following the railroad tracks?

Answer: Yeah sure, but if you're wearing ear buds, look up once in awhile. Also if you overtake a Via Rail train along the way, keep it to yourself.

Question: What time do you turn on the Northern Lights?

Answer: In order to conserve energy, I have to answer that question with a question: "What time will you be watching?"

Question: What state is Toronto in?

Answer: Given the gridlock, the impossible parking, the homeless and the gun violence, I would say Toronto right now is in a state of disrepair.

Question: Why are they so nice and polite in Canada?

Answer: Canadians have a long and proud history of being respectful and gracious to others. But I can tell you with this whole Trump thing, you're working on our very last nerve!

"Birds I View"

By Bob Rigby - Walking through the woods these past few days has been very quiet indeed. The weather is being very kind to our feathered friends and migration can take its merry time. I do not see us having birds moving through until such time that temperatures cool down. A brief story from the recent past: if you weren't aware, a pair of peregrine falcons nested successfully here in Espanola two years ago. From my observations, I believe the nest was within the confines of the Domtar plant high atop one of the building rooftops. While here, they fed mostly on feral pigeons, which I am sure you have observed from time to time being fed at the Queensway Motel. Sometimes as many as a hundred or more pigeons could be seen perched on the telephone lines at that location. At any rate, the nesting peregrines decimated this huge flock of pigeons to a mere handful, and it remains a small flock to this day. The falcons were also seen taking seagulls near the ski hill.

To have the falcons nest here is quite the thing as the peregrine is still regarded as a bird in peril, and, as such, extremely rare. I did not see them return this year, which tells me that ample food source must play a huge part of where peregrines decide to nest.

Recipe

This arugula and nectarine salad with a fresh basil dressing is pretty to serve and delicious for summer or fall. My sister sent me this recipe and told me it's a "must try". Nectarines are in season right now and the garden is full of basil, so this is a perfect time to try this salad with its beautiful fall colours of green and orange. If you are not a fan of arugula, your favourite greens can be substituted.

ARUGULA & NECTARINE SALAD

Yield: Makes approximately 6 servings

- 1 box (5 oz) arugula
- 2 ripe nectarines, thinly sliced
- 1/4 cup walnuts, roughly chopped (toasted if you like)
- 1/4 cup feta cheese, crumbled

Ingredients for the dressing:

- 1/4 cup fresh basil leaves
- 3 tbsp extra virgin olive oil
- 1 tbsp balsamic vinegar
- 1/2 tsp maple syrup
- Freshly cracked black pepper, to taste

Add all of the ingredients for the dressing to a blender or food processor and blend until smooth. In a large bowl toss all ingredients together with desired amount of dressing.
