Espanola's Blake Bond Rings The Bell

An Espanola boy has rung the bell declaring himself officially cancer free. There is a bell at Sick Kids in Toronto and when a child is declared cancer free, they get to make it ring. Kayli Bond, the mother of eight-year-old Blake Bond, says he rang the bell in early January adding it is fantastic news because it means Blake has hit a major milestone in his cancer treatment, which began nearly four years ago and is now being considered cancer free. But, there will be long-term ramifications for Blake as well. "He bruises easily and is sore. The treatments have led to some learning challenges, and we don't know the full

... And You Thought You Had An Odd Job

As a high school student, I once had a summer job killing rattlesnakes as they slithered up to the conveyor belt at the Erie Peat Moss factory in Wainfleet. The women packaging the peat at the end of the line were most grateful. I had nightmares for months. Before I discovered I could make money by staying home and make a living making fun of my dog, I life-guarded, waited tables at the Rex Hotel in Welland and the Walper Hotel in Kitchener, painted houses, cleaned steel with a swing grinder, worked in two men's clothing stores, taught tennis, ran a wine bar, sold books to universities, drove a delivery truck, took bets for a friend who ran an illegal bookmaking operation and sold audio/visual equipment for The 3M Company.

These income-earning exploits did not however inspire me to seek even stranger employment like sniffing armpits, testing condoms, emptying porta potties, giving haircuts to dead guys or hugging thousands of strangers. Now more than ever before, there are a lot of very weird ways to make a living in the world.

A mock juror working for trial lawyers conducting case rehearsals can make $30 an hour, much more than in an actual case. (If it doesn't fit, you must admit, that's still a good chunk of change.)

In Florida, scuba divers can make up to $500 a day retrieving golf balls from water hazards at 10 cents a ball while growing earthworms in your basement can earn you $20 a pound for the really good quality Red Wigglers.

In New York City, a great looking foot can make up to $300 an hour modeling, but a guy who turns pages for musicians at Carnegie Hall makes only half that much. And Claudia De John-Saraceno, a funeral parlor cosmetologist, has never had a customer complaint in her entire career.

There are jobs out there you've likely never heard of ... like a diener who preps cadavers for autopsies or an ocularist who paints artificial (glass) eyes or a Foley Artist who creates noises for the sound effects in films.

Those jobs I could probably do but I just don't see myself plunging my nose into another man's armpit and then evaluating the experience. At Hilltop Labs in Cincinnati, Ohio, Betty Lyon has been sticking her nose in all the wrong places and being pretty well paid as the company's Odor Judge. Helping to improve on deodorants and odorizers, Betty definitely does inhale – armpits, diapers, cat litter, etc. If it's largely unmentionable, Betty has likely sniffed it. Like if you were listening to that Charlie Pride song, Take This Job And Shove It – with her highly-educated nose, Betty could sniff out the exact location of the "job site." In Abilene, Lou Poulsen cleans and maintains 450 portable outdoor toilets and brags that he's "Number 1 in the Number 2 business in Texas."

Slightly more specialized is the professional flatulence smell – reduction tester who helps make underwear more airtight. Other, less demanding but still popular jobs include "condom testers," "deer chasers" at airport runways and "hole sitters" who watch over open manhole covers.

And when last spotted, Amma "The Hugging Saint" had arrived in North America to put the clutch on as many people as possible. Mata Amritanondamayi, a 49-year-old Indian guru has already hugged 21 million people from other parts of the world. Amma accepts donations as a professional cuddler, sometimes hugging up to 35,000 a day. (This is not a woman you want to see hacking and coughing into her armpit.) Her mission is to hug everybody in the world. That's right, Amma is coming after you and remember, she's not in it for the money. Amma's a hugger not a mugger.

In Kansas City, Missouri, James Nelson took a whack in the back of the head....a whack of money, that is. Auctioning the back of his head as a billboard on eBay, he received almost $10,000 on a five-year lease. A Texas Internet company bid highest and now have their website logo tattooed to the back of James Nelson's noggin'. (Could we please ban this business idea before we have guys shaving their heads to provide cinema screens for small, low-budget movies?)

And then there's Mark Roberts a.k.a. The Streaker. The veteran of 300 public streaks, Mark has trotted naked through the Miss World pageant, political conventions and televised sports events. A professional flasher, Mark will "dash for cash" at a world class event with your logo stenciled on his back. (Problem is, nobody looks at his back.) Mark is also approaching big name footwear makers, hoping for a "streaker/sneaker" deal. "The Nude Dude" from Liverpool, has streaked both Wimbledon and the British Open where he dashed naked across the 18th green with a tiny golf bag slung across his shoulder and the words "19th hole" in large green letters on his back with a southerly pointing arrow just below. (His detractors might call it a ... self-portrait.) I can't tell you what he did at the Liberal Democratic Conference in England a few years ago, but the sun did not shine on the "O" in VTE painted across his buttocks.

All things weird and seriously considered, Dolly Parton may have been a prophet. "Workin' 9 to 5, yeah what a way to make a livin'."

Espanola Council Asking For Extension To OPP Costing

Espanola council is putting in a request to extend the deadline for a possible switch from municipal to Ontario Provincial Police.

Councillor Bill Foster says the delay is needed because it has taken four months to get some crucial numbers from the OPP in the costing, the interim police chief will be gone all of February and there has to be public consultation.

Councillor Robert Yocum believes the OPP will be receptive to the extension since they are the ones who caused the major delay with pieces of crucial information needed for the final decision.

Council approved a bylaw to ask the OPP for a two-month extension to the March 22nd deadline.

If approved, the new date for the final signing of the deal for the switch would be May 22nd, 2018.

No final decision to stay with the Espanola Police Service or go OPP has been made.

Helping Kids Play ... In A Big Way!

The funding is not only used to offset registration fees for any given sport, it is also used to help the kids get the equipment they need.

In late January, Canadian's Tire concierge for the Jump Start Program, JP Lamothe, was delighted to open the mail.

The Little Current Lions Club along with the Little Current Royal Canadian Legion Branch #177 had sent a cheque for $1,000 for the program, which will now be matched by Jump Start national.

Lamothe appreciates the support and the funding is accessible to the public in Espanola, along the North Shore corridor and on Manitoulin Island.

Application forms are available at several public locations including the Espanola Regional Recreation Complex and Canadian Tire.

The money came from the Catch the Ace Lottery Program, which is now underway.

Funds raised goes towards various charitable causes including Jump Start for Kids. And a portion of this year's funds will also go towards helping to offset the cost of a new van for Community Living Espanola.

extent of the long-term effects yet. We will have to deal with that as time goes by."

Kayli is cautiously optimistic though saying she prays the cancer doesn't return. She says Blake has blood tests every week at home in Espanola, goes to Sudbury every two weeks and is in Ottawa every month for close monitoring.

With the ongoing testing, the support of the public is much appreciated and still very much needed, especially the trips to Ottawa. The family does receive financial assistance, but not all expenses are covered and waiting for reimbursement makes travel difficult.

Kayli adds the positive news makes for a very special birthday for Blake who turns nine this February 19th. There will be balloons, cake, treats, games and those special people who love the little man.

Kayli emphasizes the family could not have survived the last four years without the support of family and friends, and the wider public who have assisted the family through so many fundraisers. A special thank you goes out to the Espanola Express who have always been there for Blake.

A gofundme account is at: <https://www.gofundme.com/f6psxc> and direct donations can be made to the Team Blake account at Espanola's TD Bank.

Kayli, Blake and Haleigh Bond celebrate Blake ringing the bell and being declared cancer free. Photos provided by Kayli Bond.

Recipe

Last week I shared one of my Mother-in-law's tried and true recipes and here is another one. She kindly has provided me with a month's worth of recipes, which is simply wonderful because it saves me a lot of research and work, and I confidently know that the recipes are good. This bread dunks deliciously into big bowls of chili, but can be served with any meal.

Chili- Cheese Corn Bread

- ½ pound of pepperoni
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 ½ cups yellow cornmeal
- 1/3 cup of sugar
- 2 tbsp baking powder
- 1 ½ tsp salt
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- ½ cup vegetable oil
- ½ cup sour cream
- 6 oz (1 ½ cups) of shredded cheddar cheese
- 1 4oz can chopped green chillies, drained

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Grease a 9" spring form pan. Chop pepperoni into small pieces. In a large bowl, measure flour, cornmeal, sugar, baking powder and salt. In a medium bowl with a wire whisk, beat eggs, milk, oil and sour cream until smooth. With a fork, stir egg mixture into the flour mixture just until blended. Stir in the pepperoni, cheese and green chillies. Spoon batter into prepared pan. Bake 60 minutes or until golden and toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. To serve-carefully loosen bread from inside of pan; remove side of pan and slice bread. Serve warm.

THANK YOU

THANK YOU - I want to take this opportunity to express my sincere, heartfelt gratitude to all my wonderful neighbours who have been so caring and helpful. Your kindness and compassion will never be forgotten. Too numerous are the times to individually mention that I've been told, "just call day or night, I'm only minutes away if you need me." I'm so privileged to have these people in my life. Even though thank you is inadequate, I want to thank each and everyone of you for your calls, visits and assistance. Dianne Wallace

THANK YOU - to everyone for all of your blessings and kindness. All the cards, donations, visits, food and support has been overwhelming. Special thanks to the Espanola Hospital Staff.
It is heartwarming to know that George's footprint on so many lives on. From the family of

OBITUARY

Carol Wessel, 73 - Rita Carol Wessel went to be with Jack and Jesus on January 30, 2018, after a graceful passing at home, surrounded by her family and the prayers of her church friends, just as she wanted. She was born August 25, 1944 in Sudbury, Ontario to Don and Christena Richardson (both predeceased). Carol came into this world, a blaze of red hair and freckles; always full of spunk, Carol did, and truly enjoyed many things:
most notably camping, gardening,
moving houses, decorating

(changing around the furniture — constantly!), being on the water or in the bush, watching the birds and nature around her, picking rocks on the beach, and most importantly time with family and friends.
Over her life, Carol experienced many things that shaped her into the beautiful woman that will be fondly remembered by many. If you asked her, she would tell you that it was her faith in, and relationship with God that made her a generous, loving, and strong woman, able to share her many gifts with others. She experienced poverty so that she could understand the need of those who are poor. She experienced the death of two husbands — Ron Green (1971) and Jack Wessel (2017) so she could console other widows. She experienced being a single mother of two daughters, so she knew the challenges single mothers face and could provide them with emotional support and sound advice. She experienced a learning disability, so she could be compassionate to those also having learning difficulties and encourage them to "do their best" and not get discouraged; that they were perfect the way they are. She experienced social rejection, so that she could provide support to others who have been spurned and encourage others to be inclusive. She experienced love and kindness, so she could generously share and teach this most precious gift with others, including her immediate family and those she treated as 'family'. Carol summarized some of her experiences in the book that she wrote "God's Footprints On My Life". This is the message she wanted to share with everyone. She has made us all better people for knowing her. Carol made a lasting impression on so many lives, none more so though than those of her sisters Jean Soros (Tim), Bev Anderson (predeceased) (Bob), and Linda DeVillers (Peter); her children Peggy Young-Lovelace (Perry), Jody Pilon (Roger), Bill Wessel, Rhonda Penny (Ray), Richard Wessel (Sophorn) & Dwayne Wessel (Debbie); her grandchildren Joshua, Sharon, Cora, Billie-Leah, William, Machaela, Lindsay, Justin, Krista, PiTina, Michelle, Kayla, Brandon, Thomas, Austin, Carl, Margaret, Megan, & Maddy; her great grandchildren, nieces and nephews, and all of those she considered part of her family. A gathering to celebrate her life was on Saturday, February 3, 2018 at 7:00 P.M. at the Queensway Pentecostal Church in Espanola. In lieu of flowers Carol has asked for donations to be made to Massey Bible Chapel or Camp Aush Bik Koong. Arrangements by BOURCIER
FUNERAL HOME, Espanola.
