July, National Cat Month, Remembers "Weggie And The Screen Door"

Weggie has just been inducted into that exclusive club of brainiacs known as Mensa. Normally, this elitist organization of intelligentsia only accepts people with the highest IQs in the world.

My new cat Weggie qualified because he was able to prove that he is approximately three to four times smarter than his new owner. That would be me, the household CEO who oversees the three-hundred-dollar screen-door budget.

You see, when Weggie wants to go out, he views the screen door between him and the great outdoors as about a ten-minute tunnelling job. I know this because, although I have not actually seen him do it, I have replaced four screens that had cat-size holes in the bottom right-hand corner. It's either Weggie or I have ants that escaped from Stephen King's last novel.

Four perfectly good screen doors chewed and clawed, clean through at the rate of one every two weeks. In my house, a bag of potato chips lasts longer than a screen door. The only good news is that Weggie can't wield a hammer; otherwise, there wouldn't be a window left in this house. Now you may think I'm exaggerating, but if you drive through the town of Port Colborne, you'll notice that Reichman Lumber on Main Street is offering a "Weggie Special." Basically, the deal is if your cat goes through a screen door four times, the fifth repair job is free. I am not making this up.

The other day, I was coming up from the lake when I heard him biting and digging through mesh again, trying to get out. Quickly, I grabbed the bucket of water that I use to rinse beach sand off my feet and threw it at the screen. By the time I got into the kitchen, there he was, dry as a bone and sitting calmly at the edge of the little lake on the floor, drinking from it.

Yet another time, in the middle of the night, I heard the snapping of wire mesh and crept into the kitchen with a rolled up newspaper in my hand. Right there, under the cover of darkness, I smacked the cowering little culprit two or maybe three times. Yes, standing naked while still mostly asleep, I gave my rubber boots the thrashing of their lives. Safe to say they'll never try to escape in the night ever again. Meanwhile, back in the bedroom, Weggie was circling a spot at the foot of the bed, just settling in for a good sleep. Did I mention that he's smart and really, really fast?

I was returning from a neighbour's cottage one evening when I heard the unmistakable sound of teeth and claws on wire, on...let me see, I believe it was screen door number three because while working on number four, Frank said: "You know, most guys wouldn't replace this screen. Most guys would replace the cat."

So when I heard the gnashing of metal mesh, I crept to within ten yards of the kitchen door and grabbed one of the rubber boots I'd previously beaten half to death. Holding it just over my right shoulder in the quick-toss position, I crouched behind a shrub and waited for the little monster to snap one more strand of wire. And I waited, patiently, because this was the shot that was going to be heard around the neighbourhood. I was going to throw the boot with all my might at the water pail, and the splashing, I was certain, would be enough to deter any further tunnelling through screen doors.

And I waited, in this frozen live-action pose, because I knew when that boot hit the bucket in front of his face, Weggie would never touch another sliding door as long as I let him live. And I waited, in this coiled and ready-to-lunge position, until my lower back went numb and my throwing arm fell asleep.

And when I moved my neck to the left, to ease the pain in my shoulders, I saw him sitting in the living room window staring at me. I'm sure he'd been there for the entire twenty minutes I had been standing like a statue of a man holding a rubber boot. It's a good thing I was so sore, otherwise I might have hurt myself laughing.

As we stared at each other with contempt, I noticed him looking past me towards the road, hoping to catch a glimpse of that turnip truck I fell off on the way into town. Then he looked back at me, and I swear he shook his head. It was a "way too much TV, Bill" shake of that arrogant but very handsome head. Then he licked himself and went to bed. I went and soaked in a hot tub for an hour to regain the feeling in my back and upper body. Did I mention he's a really smart little fella? But I'll catch him vandalizing that screen door. You can count on that. Of course, when I do, about the only thing I'll be able to do is push my walker in his general direction to scare him a little bit – but I'll catch him, of that much I am sure.

Now, please, there's a cute little critter in a cage just down the road waiting for you to show up!

Save AB Ellis Committee Plans 100 Years Celebration

Despite plans for the wrecking ball, the Save AB Ellis Public School Committee is planning to celebrate its 100th anniversary.

Committee spokesperson, Fred Yackman, says the school turns 100 in September 2019 and the committee wants to acknowledge that.

He says the school is an architectural gem and is not only in, but is, the heart of the community. Re-purposing it for apartments is a viable option, he adds, and the committee continues to fight the demolition planned by the Rainbow District Public School Board.

To that end, the work is beginning on planning a celebration for the 100th year since the founding of the school. Yackman adds the members would like the public to step forward to show its support for such a celebration despite plans to demolish the school in 2020.

The committee is looking for public input, which can be shared on their Facebook site.

Malia Latendresse Doing Better Than Expected

Alexcie Dillen and Dylan Latendresse of Massey's little girl is doing very well: Malia was born with spina bifida, but her prognosis is better than hoped at this point. She had surgery on her spine shortly after birth and is healing well. Mother Alexcie says so far she is eating good, sleeping and progressing great!

"We got some news from orthopaedics that she may not need a pelvis cast to support her hips and may not even need the casting on her feet ... that everything may just correct itself."

Alexis adds Malia's head ultrasounds are stable, which means she doesn't need a shunt as of right now.

Malia was born on June 20th by 'c section' and has been improving steadily. Ultrasound had revealed her condition before birth, so special arrangements to have her delivered at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Kids were put in place. Communities along the North Shore corridor also drew together to raise funds for the couple, since Alexcie will have to stay in Toronto for some time while her daughter continues to receive care.

Alexcie and Dylan thank everyone for their positive comments, support and prayers.

Photo: One week old Malia Latendresse is doing very well. Malia Julianna Latendresse was born June 20, 2018 @ 9:46am weighing 6lbs 6oz in Toronto, two days ahead of her expected date of arrival.

42nd Running Of The Massey Marathon And Add In A Bit Of Colour!

Friendly Massey Marathon. It was founded by Norm Patenaude, who was also one of the founders of the Ontario Roadrunners Association and helped develop the standards used for race accreditation, which have been adopted by several national and international running organizations.

Maintaining a loyal following, excuse the pun, was not always easy. The event changed locations regularly in its infancy to places such as Espanola, Chelmsford, Sudbury and finally Massey. But, the marathon continued and is a highlight event for enthusiasts in July. In fact, the 10K is celebrating its 11th anniversary this year and this is the third year for the Family 5K.

The course, simply put, is beautiful and runs as two loops of the half marathon course, which is flat and fast. It also runs along the Spanish River with lots of shade and beautiful vistas, so it is a pretty course.

A traditional spaghetti supper is offered on Saturday evening and there is a popular pancake breakfast for all participants on Sunday morning at the Massey Arena.

New this year is the Predators Colour Run on July 14th at 3:00pm, a fundraising event for the local minor hockey association, but it will definitely add some sparkle to the weekend with splattered colour powder dressing up the participants.

Race headquarters are also located right near the beautiful Chutes Provincial Park, which has six kilometres of hiking trails with great views of scenic waterfalls. With fun runs on Saturday, they provide something for everyone in the family and a full weekend of fun. In fact, there have been several occasions where family reunions are centered around the marathon.

The course records are as follows:

Marathon
Male: Elbhaizi Ahmed (Morocco): 2:29:53 (1994)
Female: Angela Batsford (Callander, Ont.): 3:06:38 (2005)

Half Marathon
Male: Stan Trudeau (Toronto, Ont.): 1:10:40 (1997)
Female: Jennifer Faraone (Toronto, Ont.): 1:21:03 (2004)

10K
Male: Eric Leishman (Chapleau, Ont.): 33:34 (2014)
Female: Katie Wisner (Sudbury, Ont.): 38:47 (2015)

5K
Male: Justin Leale (Espanola, Ont.): 17:42 (2016)
Female: Emily Dodge (Garson, Ont.): 21:31 (2016)

Jill Beer Taking Another Run For Espanola Mayor

Former Deputy Mayor Jill Beer is running for mayor in Espanola.

High school teacher and professional engineer, Beer was first elected as a councillor in 2010 and was sworn in as deputy mayor having the highest number of votes of the six members that year.

She made a bid in 2014 for mayor, but lost against incumbent Mayor Ron Piche who is also seeking a second term of office.

The election is slated for October 22nd.

Espanola Horticultural Society Changes Name

By Sheila Pope - The Espanola Horticultural Society has a new name! We have changed our name to the "Espanola Gardeners", something that sounds a bit more modern and perhaps a little less intimidating. We are the same group of people, dedicated to creating attractive spaces in Espanola, and helping other people to achieve the same goals. One of our mandates is the beautification of our town and we fulfill that by maintaining gardens throughout Espanola. Have you had a look at the garden space between the Recreation Complex and the Public Library? That's the Espanola Gardeners at work. How about the flower beds at the entrance to the hospital and health clinic? We look after those, too, as well as four other spots - the Tri Park at the corner of Second Avenue and Barber Street, the Espanola High School planter, and memorial gardens on Spanish River Drive and at the Queensway Pentecostal Church. The Community Garden on Algoma Street is also under the umbrella of the Espanola Gardeners.

We'd like to invite the residents and businesses of Espanola to join us in our plan to make Espanola a more pleasant place to live and visit. Just think what a difference a few flowers in a small garden bed, a planter, or in a hanging basket would make for all who pass by. Property values would increase, people would be drawn in to an attractive building. It's all positive!

Our group is planning to take a tour around town later in the summer and reward the residence and business that we feel has done the most effective job of beautifying their location. The winners will be posted. In the past three years we have recognized and rewarded businesses and homeowners who seem to take great pride in their public face. If you have a recommendation for a location for our panel to have a look at, please contact Keitha at 705-583-2113. We hope you will join us in making Espanola a more beautiful town!

Recipe

Are you trying to avoid using the oven because you don't want to heat
up the house any more than it already is? Or are you looking for a simple summer dessert? This layered frozen ice cream dessert is a recipe you can make all summer long and I promise you that everyone will love it. It's easy to make, delicious, and you can make it ahead to have on hand for summer guests, to take to a social gathering or just to enjoy yourself.

Buster Bars

- 1 package (14.3 ounces) Oreo cookies, crushed (dump
cookies into a large plastic zip-lock bag and pound them until they crumble)
- Container of vanilla ice cream, softened
(approx. 8 cups or 4 Litres)
- 16 ounces hot fudge sauce
- 1 1/2 cups peanuts
- 1 large container of Cool Whip (1 Litre)

Line the bottom of 9x13-inch dish with crushed Oreos (I like to use a tall foil cake pan). Spread softened ice cream over Oreos.
Place the pan in the freezer and allow time for the ice cream to freeze again (1 to 2 hours). Spread fudge sauce on top of the vanilla ice cream (if it's too thick, put it in the microwave for just about 10 seconds to soften a bit). Sprinkle peanuts on top of the fudge, and then the Cool Whip over the peanuts. Place it in the freezer again to firm up. Once firm, you can cover it with plastic wrap and keep it in the freezer until ready to serve.
To serve, allow it to thaw a bit, cut into squares, and serve with additional hot fudge and peanuts.
