New Logging Book Attracting Plenty Of Attention

Photo - A local area historian, John Haegeman, has compiled a book, The History and Location of North Shore Logging Camps, which is filled with photos and historical anecdotes. The book will be available shortly. Photo by Rosalind Russell.

By Rosalind Russell - A book that focuses on the history of logging camps is getting plenty of buzz in the Espanola area.

Eighty-four-year-old John Haegeman was a fur trapper back in the 1980s when he met up with Damien Lunning who introduced him to log hammers. Haegeman says the law to mark logs for transport came into being in 1870 but was discontinued in the 1940s with rivers no longer being used for transportation.

He had collected hundreds of the

Sports - A Really Bad Metaphor For Life

You know what's wrong with sports today? Underwater hockey. And chess boxing, really bad officiating, drug cheaters, too many games, tickets that cost the same as your first car, violence, concussions, a new baseball rule in which a batter can steal first base, the salary cap, greedy agents, meddling NHL parents, the uniforms of the Vegas Golden Knights, crotch scratching, serial horking, the price of a cup of beer and human-being impersonator Richie Incognito?

And as far as new sports go, I'm definitely against the Baby Olympics in which children between two and four years of age compete in gymnastics, basketball, football and wait-for-it...weightlifting. But I'm all for lifting the weight you married and running through an obstacle course with that bride draped awkwardly over your shoulders. In Finland's Wife Carrying Championships, the winners earn their weight in cheese and the losers go home in separate schlumbergers, not puhuminening to each other.

Car curling is apparently quite popular except with insurance agents while in Beer Pong, a ping pong drinking game, many matches are postponed due to too much vomit on the table. Haggis Hurling and the Hairiest Back Championships actually draw crowds.

But you know what's really rotten in sports today? The US Women's National Soccer Team! I have never seen a more talented team of athletes behave like such a bunch of knuckle-dragging boors at the recent FIFA World Cup in France.

Philadelphia's 'Broad Street Bullies' come to mind but even those vulgarians stopped short of insulting the Queen of England.

First the US unmercifully ran up the score against first-time qualifier Thailand to a humiliating 13 to 0 defeat. But all the while they lavishly celebrated each and every goal--dancing, sliding, splashing, fist pumping--it was so over-the-top, normally stoic commentator Kaylyn Kyle said: "I'm disgusted. There are kids watching this."

After scoring a big goal against England, Alex Morgan celebrated by mockingly sipping a cup of tea with her pinky finger sticking out. An ugly American abroad sticks her thumb in the eye of the Queen of England. Afterward Captain Megan Rapinoe screamed out some sort of victory tirade punctuated by F-bombs throughout. The message: "So as we grow the game in America let's make sure all the little boys and girls learn to be just as pompous and gross as we are!" Arrogant, crude and cruel--who do these women think they are? The US Olympic men's swim squad?

Recently the US House of Representatives voted 240 to 187 to publicly condemn President Donald Trump's latest racist screed to send four elected representatives, all women of colour, back to their "broken and crime-infested countries." All are Americans so...yeah, they're pretty much already there. Given his endless list of crimes and scandals, the president is also guilty of really bad geography. Sports? Oh yeah, the 2022 Professional Golf Association Championship will be held at Trump's Bedminster Golf Club in New Jersey. In light of the president's self-created crisis of racism in America, some are calling for the tournament to be moved elsewhere. Still denying he's a racist, the president claims this is a really stupid idea especially since he's already paid for the "White's Only" signs for the washrooms.

The City of Toronto has a noise problem so they sent a delegation down to New York City to see how that metropolis dealt with its daily dilemma with din. Sinatra was right. Apparently over the years New York actually did become "The City That Never Sleeps." Why didn't Toronto just send a delegation down to Exhibition Place and cancel the Honda Indy which you can hear as far away as Niagara-On-The-Lake for three ear-splitting days?!? Save the gas, spare the pollution and make Toronto so quiet even people in the suburbs could hear that day's downtown shooting. The Indy-- identical cars operated by nearly identical drivers going round'n round in a circle until some guy who can't stand the boredom anymore runs out onto the track with a checkered flag and puts an end to it all.

That brings us to cricket which is not really a sport but an extremely silly game of Scrabble played on a soccer pitch. On what planet would a score of six runs be called a Dorothey Dix and an erratic swing at the ball is called a Perhaps. A &#%K@*! Perhaps!?! Like a freaking "If By Chancer!" Any game in which a bowler can toss a dabbly-dobbly with a spinning googly to a poor-hitting rabbit hoping that his sweeper can pull off a lolly between the fly slip and cow corner- should be banned in public places everywhere. I tell you it's enough to break one's duck. And yes I'm aware of the Global T20 Canadian Cricket League but frankly I don't give a slog sweep!

And the last word on "Goodbye Kawhi." Had sound reasoning and wisdom been involved in his decision to stay or leave Toronto, Kawhi Leonard would have been a Raptor for the next five years. I mean you really have to worry about reasoning power of a guy who forgoes the adoration of an entire nation so he can live closer to wild fires, mud slides and earthquakes.

Why do we watch sports in this day and age? Because it's slightly less depressing than the news.

Sables-Spanish Rivers Township Council Will Survey Building Fees

Sables-Spanish Rivers Township council is undertaking a poll of other municipalities to see how they set their building permit fees following several concerns raised by local residents and business owners.

Council has met with several farmers over the last month including Charlie Smith and John Mooney who both expressed their alarm over what they believe is exorbitant fees.

Township CAO Kim Sloss says the fees were reviewed in 2012 and 2016.

Mayor Leslie Gamble says township staff is polling other communities to see what their fees are for different classes of development and how they are set.

However, he cautions there may not be any changes made. Council will discuss the poll results at their August meeting.

New Logging Book Attracting Plenty Of Attention

hammer stamps used by the companies that had logs transported down the Spanish River and the stories that go along with them.

Filled with photos and historical anecdotes, "The History and Location of North Shore Logging Camps" will be available shortly.

Haegeman admits he has always been a collector.

"I didn't even know what a hammer stamp was, but quickly did some information gathering and found it fascinating. I started to explore some of the old logging camps, many of them now abandoned, of course, looking for the stamps.

His book features 275 old logging camps, which Haegeman admits, Google Earth helped him locate when he went exploring, sometimes days at a time.

He also got a hold of another book, "Registered Timber Marks of Eastern Canada", which featured all the registered hammers, what they looked like, where they were used and who used them, including the companies that logged the North over the decades. It was completed in 1985.

He says his collection is wide and varied.

"One hammer took me 21 years to find, another 30. Physically, I found it sometimes demanding, but I loved going out and exploring the camps. Sometimes I would go back three, four, five times before finding a hammer.

The logs were brought down the Spanish River in huge booms. They were deliberately cut to 16 feet, six inches.

"The extra six inches were to allow for any damage to the end of the logs when they went over rough water or through rapids. The Town of Spanish was the hub of activity during those 'boom' times.

"The loggers would sort up to 32,000 logs a day, they literally would eat while walking and working the logs, amazing balance," he explains.

"Twenty-five companies used the river and each one of them had their own stamps applied to the wood. In Spanish, they would be sorted into separate booms lined up along the edge of the harbour. The booms were huge, 20,000 logs in one boom going to the Blind River mill, up to 50,000 for booms transported to Bay City, Michigan.

Haegeman described one stamp, which he considers a favourite; the EDDY Brothers stamp.

"There were four brothers from Bay City, Michigan who were all involved in logging. Their stamp was made up of four E's etched into the metal. It was called the Box E Hammer."

He admits his health is not as good as it was, so his exploring days are over. The book is a culmination of his life's work. He credits many people with helping bring it together, with a special thank you to his wife, Claudette, who "always had supper waiting."

Anyone interested in knowing more can contact Haegeman on Facebook, via email: haegeman@cyberbeach.net or call 705-869-2394.

Recipe

My friend shared this recipe with me stating "these are the best blueberry muffins ever!" Fortunately for me, we have a blueberry patch close to our house and I had just picked a bowl of berries, so I tried it and she was right. They are rich and delicious; the secret being the sour cream. The recipe makes a large batch of muffins so I froze half to enjoy later.

Blueberry Cream Muffins

- 4 eggs
- 2 cups white sugar
- 1 cup vegetable oil
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 2 cups sour cream
- 2 cups blueberries

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F (200 degrees C). Grease 24 muffin cups or line with paper muffin liners. In large bowl beat eggs, gradually add sugar while beating. Continue beating while slowly pouring in oil. Stir in vanilla. In a separate bowl, stir together flour, salt and baking soda. Stir dry ingredients into egg mixture alternately with sour cream. Gently fold in blueberries. Scoop batter into prepared muffin cups. Bake in preheated oven for 20 minutes.
