100,000 Jumps

By a proud father, Todd Yusko - The Big Air Event has been a great fundraiser for the local ski hill in Espanola over the last five years. This event has brought people from all over the surrounding area. This year the name has changed to 'Boomers Big Air'.

Brandon Boomhower, born in September 1997, had been on skis since the age of three. At six years-old, he switched to snowboard, as the snowboard was the preferred choice of his two older brothers. Being on the hill was better than any other sport that he participated in and he found his passion when he traded his snowboard for his first pair of trick skis.

Anything for a jump or a rail. With countless hours of watching You Tube videos, hours on the hill with jumps,

ESAA – Emotional Support Animal Absurdity

Today's flight attendant must feel like Noah of the Ark – animals boarding one after the other taking their places on and under the seats. Dogs, cats, rabbits and pork belly pigs – all of which their owners claim to be emotional support animals approved by doctors and the airline itself.

Actually, it wouldn't be so bad if that list of ESAs (and yes, they now have earned their own anagram!) was limited to those four species.

Recently a woman showed up at the United Airlines counter at Newark, New Jersey for a flight to Los Angeles with an emotional support peacock named Dexter. I'm not sure if you've ever heard the shrill scream of a peacock, but flight attendants would be better off dealing with a drunken Guido from Jersey Shores than a bird whose cry comes in at 115 decibels.

I had a friend on a farm out here in Wainfleet who was so stressed out by the neighbour's screeching peacock she shot it! So as far as ESA's are concerned, my friend would be okay if United Airlines allowed Dexter on the flight as long as she could bring her shotgun on board.

Yet another woman had her ESA rejected and was quoted as saying she could not "think about life without Stormy," her emotional-support snake. (Didn't Trump say the same thing about Stormy, the one who dances with poles?) Snakes on planes – bad – but not possibly as bad as the movie. Delta Airlines has banned "creatures with tusks" which could well avoid the embarrassing situation of a real elephant in the room. Delta had their ESA moment in 2016 when a passenger brought on a big black turkey as their therapeutic companion. That same year on a Frontier Airlines flight from Columbus, Ohio to Las Vegas someone's emotional support marmoset got loose and disappeared on the plane. Oscar a seven-foot boa constrictor ESA must have been sleeping at the time otherwise he'd have found that varmit!

Jet Blue has since banned "unusual animals" like "snakes, other reptiles, ferrets, rodents and spiders." Spiders! Really, there's a person out there who experiences calmness every time a tarantula crawls down his shirt?!!

Jet Blue's initial experience with a bad ESA flight came when many passengers complained about a duck walking up and down the aisle unaccompanied. The duck's name – not making this up – was Daniel Turducken Stinkerbutt and he was wearing a Captain America diaper and tiny red shoes. Are you kidding me? I'd pay fifty bucks extra to sit back with a drink and watch a duck wearing a nappy and sneakers walk up and down the aisle. I once had a woman change a diaper next to me during the inflight meal so yeah, I'm definitely going with that daffy duck.

What truly boggles the mind is that although they banned rodents and reptiles, miniature horses were allowed to fly as ESAs on all Jet Blue flights. I suppose it comes down to how everybody aboard feels about miniature horse buns. My worst nightmare on long flights is the crying kid so I'm thinking... pony rides.

Shortly after Alaska Airlines banned goats, passengers at the Albany International Airport in New York heard an official on the PA system announce that someone had left an emotional support goldfish at security. (I'll bet Oscar was salivating when he heard that announcement.)

And finally we come to the grand ESA of them all - Wally. Wally is a five-foot-long, 60-pound alligator and the doctor-approved security blanket for 65-year-old Joie Henney of York Haven, Pennsylvania.

Wally is described as “bashful, a big teddy bear who likes to snuggle and give hugs,”

“My doctor wanted to put me on depression medicine and I hate taking medicine” said Joie as he snuggled on the couch with this grinning grey reptile with huge warts and teeth the size of railroad spikes. “I had Wally, and when I came home and was around him, it was all OK.” (All okay except nobody has seen the paperboy in over a year!)

Ah Joie, you need to watch Grizzly Man, the Werner Herzog documentary about Timothy Treadwell who befriended three grizzly bears in Alaska to the point where he petted them, fed them and they slept together. Grizzly bears are described as “man-eating” for a very good reason and on October 6, 2003

Timothy became one of those reasons. It’s sort of a twisted version of “The Three Little Bears” which ends with Papa Bear saying: “Screw it. I’m not going out tonight to forage for food. I’m eatin’ in!” I know Joie hates taking medicine but I wonder how he feels about embalming fluid?

Look, I understand the palliative power of pets. I’m uplifted just by petting a dog or a cat. But that’s it, dogs and cats. All other animals go in the hold and keep the parakeets a safe tongue-snapping distance from Oscar. The last thing airlines need is a “Your ESA ate my ESA fight” among passengers.

Sweet 16 Party A Sweet Affair

Nearly 150 people took in the party bash and spaghetti dinner for Emily Richer hosted by the Massey Legion on Saturday night, February 2nd.

Emily’s mother, Lisa, says her daughter was born with many medical issues, but has defied the odds, so having a sweet 16 party is a miracle in itself.

The community of Massey has drawn together once again to assist a local family with some vital medical equipment while celebrating a sweet 16.

The $4,200 raised at the event will go towards a new suction machine for Emily’s continued care.

Lee Valley Hall Re-Opening Its Doors

Photo: A new lease has been signed between the Township of Sables-Spanish Rivers and the Autumn Leaves of Lee Valley. Photo provided

The Lee Valley Hall will be re-opening its doors and the members, the Autumn Leaves Seniors, are already planning for their return.

Autumn Leaves board president, Patricia Campbell, says the legalities involving leasing the land the hall is built on have been cleared up.

She says the hall, which has been serving the local area since 1912, had to be shut down just over a year ago because of the legal limbo.

But, a new lease is now in place with the Township of Sables-Spanish Rivers signed on January 15th.

Campbell also thanks the several businesses that have supported the group over the last year providing alternative venues to host events.

She adds a grand re-opening is slated for April.

rails and many bruises, this boy taught himself the art of freestyle skiing. If there was a jump to be made, he made it. If he shoveled the deck, he only did it so he could pile up snow to make a ramp to ride a home-built rail. A bungee cord for Christmas meant he could now propel himself forward on level ground to practice. Borrowing Dad's truck and dump trailer meant he could grab a few ski friends and haul snow from the hockey rink to the ski hill in October. All that effort to shovel snow so they could walk up the hill and do rails over and over. This was not labour intensive for him, it was fun. With Tom and Claudia Hutchinson's support at the Espanola ski hill, they were thrilled with his spirit and love of skiing.

With numerous ski hill memberships from Mount St Louis, Snow Valley, and of course Boogie Mountain in Espanola, Brandon improved his skills at jumping and rails. With the grand opening of the Big Air at Boogie Mountain, Brandon was naturally attracted to this event. He also competed in North Bay and Horseshoe Valley.

These opportunities led Brandon to join Team Ontario at the age of 17. The team has trained in Australia, Quebec, Horseshoe Valley and did open water jumping during the summer months. With all this ski jumping and finally some coaching in the later years, Brandon became a talented entertainer on any ski hill that had a snow park with jumps and rails.

Brandon's involvement with the Espanola hill was to help create jumps and rails at the snow park. He would engage with the ski hill directors and share his ideas for the park. If he was skiing, it was not so much on the big hill, but he would spend his time at the park. You would see him giving tips to the young skiers as they were inspired to do what he could do. He became one of the judges for the Big Air event. He was also going to teach kids how to ski over the Christmas holidays. Unfortunate events did not permit.

With Brandon's passing in early December 2018, we, his parents, decided to direct the memorial donations to the Espanola Ski Hill. We had called Tom and Claudia to first let them know of our loss and second, to tell them that the ski hill will be the recipient of the funeral donations. It was Tom and Claudia who were friends to Brandon, and they decided to honour our son with the name change this year, to Boomers Big Air.

With Brandon's life ending short, his family and the ski hills will miss his back flips and twists as he amazed so many.

Espanola Council Accepts Integrity Commissioner's Recommendations

It appears the Integrity Commissioner's recommendations reprimanding three members of council will finally be dealt with.

Last August, Integrity Commissioner Shearer Parnege found that four councillors: Ron Duplessis, Ken Duplessis, Heather Mallott and Ray Dufour, had been involved in abusive and intimidating behavior involving municipal staff.

Former councillor, Ron Duplessis, was defeated in the last election, so council passed a motion on Thursday, January 31st, accepting the recommendations for the other three councillors.

All four have never made a public comment on the advice of legal counsel.

Nine municipal department heads made the formal complaints last Spring.

Council accepted that Mallott and Ken Duplessis undergo training on the Code of Conduct and workplace harassment within 90 days or they will lose 30 days of remuneration.

Dufour is to lose remuneration for 90 days, as well as attend required training on workplace harassment and discrimination, and the proper role of council in relation to staff.

Municipalities will see increase in District Services Board budget

Costs for social services have gone up and that means taxpayers can expect to see a slight increase in taxes in the Sudbury and Manitoulin districts.

The 2019 budget for the Manitoulin-Sudbury District Services Board shows an increase of just over $1.6 million or 4.48%.

That adds up to an average increase of $116,000 or 1.13% in the municipal share. CAO Fern Dominelli says the biggest increase comes in paramedic services, $93,529, or about 1.25%.

There other increases come in Ontario Works and social housing, but no increase in children services.

The increase will be calculated into member municipalities' upcoming budgets.

Recipe

Make these cute, meringue heart cookies for a Valentine's Day treat or to give as little gifts!

Heart Meringue Cookies

- 4 egg whites, room temperature
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- ¼ tsp lemon juice
- Pinch of salt
- Red food coloring
- Red sprinkles

Line a baking sheet with parchment paper and preheat the oven to 200 degrees F. Using an electric mixer, beat eggs on medium speed. Add lemon juice and pinch of salt. Gradually increase the speed to high and keep mixing while slowly adding in the sugar. Once your mixture is glossy and forms stiff peaks, add one small drop of food coloring, and gently mix in. Using a piping bag and tip, or a Ziploc bag with the corner snipped, draw out a heart outline on your lined baking sheet. Then, fill each heart in with meringue. Garnish with red sprinkles. Bake for two hours. Once the two hours is up, turn off the heat and let sit in the oven for 35-45 minutes. Remove from heat and allow to cool on a wire rack.
