New Owners For Five Local Tim Horton Franchises

By Rosalind Russell - Five Tim Horton locations across the North Channel corridor are changing hands.

Denis and Lynn Lefebvre have been part of Timmy's for the last 25 years, but Denis says he and his wife are now looking at new ventures.

He adds that long-time friends Al and Nicole Martin are in the process of finalizing the transfer of the franchises in Espanola, Little Current, McKerrow and two in Blind River.

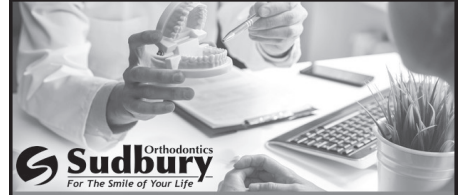

He thanks the wider community for its support over the years and looks forward to the Martins receiving that same support.

Over the last quarter-century, the Lefebvres have supported various

Garden Project Went Well – Memberships Sought

The Espanola Gardeners had some great weather last weekend to get kids out and into the paint.

As part of a community beautification project, the organization had children between 9 and 14 years of age come out to the Algoma Park beside the Espanola Community Garden last Saturday.

Grant Lewis says the kids did a great job with the Art in the Park project and in turn, the produce grown will be donated to the Espanola Helping Hand Food Bank.

He adds the organization is now looking to build its membership once again, which is only $8 each and can contact him directly for payment via Facebook.

Lewis says they are also looking at the possibility of hosting their first in-person meeting this fall after the forced hiatus caused by the pandemic.

PHOTOS: The Art in the Park project hosted by the Espanola Gardeners was a big success this past weekend. Artwork was created by children to enhance Algoma Park beside the Espanola Community Garden last Saturday. Photos provided by Espanola Gardeners.

Continuing Education Opportunities at Cambrian College

For most people, a college education is a two- or three-year investment that leads to a diploma in a specific program, but increasingly, people just want to get a college education, one credit at a time, either for professional development, skills upgrading, or personal enrichment.

Cambrian College Continuous learning chair Charline Smith says modern continuing education is like a menu where a person can order a specific certificate program in a particular discipline or can pick and choose individual courses to their liking.

She adds continuing education programs and courses are offered on a full-time or part-time basis and online, providing as much flexibility as possible to suit learners' needs.

There are a number of different courses offered through the program she says and anyone interested in finding out more is encouraged to contact the main campus in Sudbury or the satellite campuses in Espanola or Little Current.

Certificate programs offered through Continuing Education include Business Writing, Construction Management, Dental or Medical Office Assistant, Palliative Care, and Trades Leadership and Entrepreneurship, and many more.

You can also take individual courses in such topics as: Accounting Basics, Adobe Illustrator, Computer-aided Drafting, Principles of Sales, and Social Media Marketing, to name a few.

To learn more about Cambrian Continuing Education programs and courses and when to register, simply visit www.cambriancollege.ca/coned.

Who Has Become Stranger Since The Pandemic? Us Or The Animals?

Last month I thought when a lobster fisherman in Maine ended up in the mouth of a humpback whale only to be unceremoniously spit out like a cherry pit because he did not taste nearly as good as an octopus... I thought that was strange. Easily as odd as "The Big Gulp," an event that took place years ago in Fredonia, New York in which an Australian parrot fell off a kitchen counter and was quickly swallowed up by a tall Irish wolfhound who had learned that any food that hits the floor was his. The dog was quickly Heimlich'd by its owner and the bird was spit out, hitting the wall like a wad of gum. Having survived, the first words out of the parrot's mouth were: "Polly wanna a cage."

Then I read about the Python Hunting Contest in the Florida Everglades where these non-indigenous monster snakes are depleting native species. In the past, professional python hunters have competed for prizes of $2,500 for the most captures and $1,500 for the longest. This year, amateurs were welcomed into the annual hunt and I'm thinking — what could possibly go wrong with this new twist?!

"Ah, Honey, we're going to need a really big bucket, a couple of ropes, some hot dogs and two six-foot boards so if one of us get swallowed up by one of them buggers we can prop the jaws open and escape through the front part."

Then a deer beat up a woman on a hiking trail in Kimberley, British Columbia and in a lagoon near Puerto Escondido, Mexico, a crocodile attacked a 28-year-old British woman taking her to the bottom in a death spiral. When the body of Melissa Lowrie floated to the surface, her identical twin Georgia waded out and began pulling her toward the shoreline. That's when the crocodile attacked a second time and Georgia beat it off by punching it in the snout. Mellissa is now out of a coma and recovering while the park employee who told them the lagoon was safe has been replaced by a sign that reads: "NO SWIMMING."

Animals are acting abnormal, I thought. But then the fireworks from a gender reveal shower in California that started a 7,000-acre wildfire in California was matched by a similar 'boy or girl' party in New Hampshire at which the proud parents set off 80 pounds of explosives cracking house foundations, breaking the neighbourhood water system and creating a blast that could be heard across state lines.

Today, as I'm writing this, it's Monday, July 19th and BBC News is reporting that in the U.K. the prime minister, the health secretary and the top financial official are all in quarantine as the Delta variant spreads faster than previous mutations and faster in the U.K. than any other country in Europe. Despite all this Prime Minister Boris Johnson is, as of today, lifting all remaining pandemic restrictions on public life!!! Yeah, nightclubs are staging New Year's Eve parties with free Prosecco as the virus rises around them like smoke from the pyrotechnics.

Now I know the International Court of Justice in The Hague is not set up to try a leader like Boris Johnson on crimes of institutional stupidity but at the very least shouldn't Madame Tussauds be featuring his wax likeness in a "Top Boneheads In The World" series???

Think about that. One of the most powerful leaders in the free world, Boris

Johnson, whose first plan at the outset of the pandemic was that 'everybody just get it and get it over with', then contracted COVID-19, almost died and is now exposing millions of Brits to disease and death with such a reckless decision... stay with me here... while a rapper named Juvenile is displaying the wisdom of Confucius when he sings: "Girl you look good once you vax that thang up/ You a handsome young brother once you vax that thang up/ Dating in real life, you need to vax that thang up." Yeah, not exactly Shakespeare but the message comes across as loud and powerful as the highlight moment of a reveal party in New Hampshire. So, you be the judge. Has the pandemic's side effect of unbridled lunacy altered the behaviour of humans more than animals or...

No, wait. The Cannes Film Festival in France just concluded with the presentation of its top prize, the Palme d'Or going to the movie Titane, a body-horror film which features sex with a car.

My immediate reaction, which I cannot prove, was that somehow, some way, Elon Musk was involved. Actually I wasn't all that surprised because many years ago I wrote about a headline I saw in the Welland Tribune about a sexual assault that took place in a parking lot behind a bar in the city: "Witness claims she saw sexual intercourse taking place between two parked cars."

So the precedent had been set. Okay, we lose the pandemic in a race to the bottom of the lagoon of astonishing absurdity, hands down. Yet there's hope. We still have an opportunity to go to Florida and drag a 19-foot long python out a swamp with little or no experience.

Recipe

I greatly appreciate when people share a recipe with me that they have enjoyed, and this is another one. My friend said this casserole was so good, that she had the leftovers for breakfast the next day. It's also a great casserole to prepare and freeze for future meals. If you have a favourite recipe that you would like to share, please feel free to email us at around@aroundandabout.ca or drop it off at the office.

Chilli Casserole with Sour Cream Mash Potatoes

- 2 onions, chopped
- 1 tbsp, olive oil
- 2 tsp ground cumin
- 2 tsp dried thyme
- 2 tbsp chilli powder
- 1 lb ground beef
- 1 can diced tomatoes
- 1 can kidney beans, rinsed and drained
- 1 can corn, drained
- 3 mixed peppers, chopped into chunks
- 2 tbsp white or red wine vinegar
- 2 tbsp brown sugar
- 1 beef bouillon cube
- 2 cups of water
- 3 lbs potatoes, chopped into large chunks
- 250 ml sour cream
- Chives, chopped
- 100 g cheddar cheese, grated

Fry the onions in the oil in a large skillet until soft. Stir in the spices and cook for 2 mins, until fragrant. Add the hamburger, breaking it up with a wooden spoon, until all the meat is browned. Stir in the tomatoes, beans, corn, peppers, vinegar and sugar. Crumble in the bouillon, pour in 2 cups of water and then bring to the boil. Cover and simmer for 20 mins, then uncover and simmer for 20 mins more until the hamburger and peppers are tender and saucy. Meanwhile, make the mashed potatoes. Boil the potatoes salted water until tender, about 15 mins. Drain well, add the sour cream and mash together. Season and stir in the chives. When the chilli is done, pour into a greased casserole dish or individual oven proof dishes. Spoon the mashed potatoes over and sprinkle with cheese. Cool completely if you want to freeze the casserole at this stage, or heat oven to 400 degrees and bake for 25-30 mins until bubbling and golden.
