The Espanola Lions Club
Was Pleased To Present A
Cheque For $5,000

By Grant Lewis - The Espanola Lions club was pleased to present a cheque for $5,000 to the North Shore Search and Rescue. The local rescue team of seven dedicated and trained volunteers are looking to purchase a Zodiac boat to improve their ability to do their vital job. At present there is no such boat available for rescue on local lakes and rivers along the North Shore. So far there has been over four calls where a Zodiac would have been a great asset. The cost of such a craft runs close to $15,000 and the team is halfway there! The Lions Club is glad to help as always. Reassuring to know that a team like Search and Rescue is there when needed; after all, it could be a matter of life and death. Seen here are Adam Page, Mitch Sutherland, and Nicole Hanson. Personal Tips For Better Driving — Burn After Reading

Like just about everything else, our driving habits have gone to hell during this two-year pandemic nightmare. Right from the get-go, police were reporting more speeding, more stunt driving and the general cutting of corners on safe, defensive driving.

Young male drivers have developed an aversion to brakes as they take turns at full speed like they're operating bumper cars in an amusement park. Older citizens are reporting drivers are passing them on the wrong side and yelling "Get a horse!" I stopped doing that well before the pandemic arrived.

So in order to reset the safety button I have compiled a few driving tips which I have personally developed over the years. However, since every person is different, this guide may or may not suit your driving style especially if your drivers license is currently under suspension and your insurance agent has asked permission to use your driving record in his upcoming seminar "Dufus At The Wheel."

For instance, recently I have noticed many drivers slowing down and then rolling through the STOP sign near my house. Remember 'STOP' means stop, as in ending forward motion. 'STOP' is not an anagram for "Slow To Observe Police."

Posted speed limits have always been a little imprecise in that, with the exception of school zones you can cheat a little. Going 45 km in a 40 km zone probably won't earn you a ticket and doing 90 km in an 80 km zone likely won't get you pulled over. But doing 110 km on the 100 km QEW will get you run over by an 18-wheeler from behind. The QEW is the only highway in Canada where a stunt driver has a better chance of survival than you do.

Recently, you may have noticed these new radar "Your Speed" signs on city streets. They're designed to remind you how fast you're driving. Do not use them to test the acceleration power of your engine. These flashing signs are powered with a small solar panel on top. If you happen to be in a real hurry, run your errands on a cloudy day when they're unable to function. Soon we will ignore these annoying signs the same way we got used to screaming car alarms and unnecessary emergency lights. Soon they will become just another distraction in this the age of distracted driving.

Still on that subject I find if you turn up your car radio really loud it will drown out that annoying "Ding! Ding! Ding!" noise that reminds you that your seatbelt is not fastened.

As basic as this may sound, it's still worth mentioning that a red traffic light means stop, green means go and yellow, according to guys driving big honkin' pickup trucks means "Tromp it! Tromp it!" Yellow used to be the symbol of 'caution' and now it's the signal to quickly tailgate through the intersection.

And just because you hit 'Cruise Control' doesn't mean you can crawl into the backseat for a nap. Remember 'Cruise Control' was designed to keep your speed on highways at about 15 km over the posted limit so as not to get pulled over.

Contrary to common belief, using your turn signal does not drain the battery. Use your blinker. Not while you're into the turn but well ahead of time so that poor bummer waiting to pull out of the side street can read your intention and be on his way. He likely does have a life. Use your damn blinker.

Also and again this applies to older drivers, look in your rearview mirror once in a while where you will likely see the driver behind you pulling out his hair. Going slow in the fast lane is like leaving your vehicle in a Tim Horton's Drive Thru to go inside and order your coffee. Don't do that.

When trapped in bumper-to-bumper traffic that always involves either an accident or a trip to Toronto, contrary to what the experts say — you do not need more patience. You need a louder horn. Pretend it's a major Mexican festival like Cinco de Mayo and have fun.

Do not eat and drive. Not only is that a driving distraction, you risk spilling mustard or catsup on your cellphone. Claiming you were driving really fast to get the snow off your windshield will not get you out of a speeding ticket. Shaving while driving is also against the law unless you use a cordless electric shaver.

With the prediction of the first snowfall of winter immediately drive to Toronto and set your lawn chair up beside any busy street. In 2016, Toronto's first blanket of snow resulted in 500 accidents in just 24 hours! You would have to attend 173 Molson Indy's to see that many car crashes.

When it comes to different driving habits remember the words of the great and late comedian George Carlin who said: "anybody who drives slow is an idiot and anybody who drives fast is a maniac." Of course, neither reference applies to you.

And if everybody drove religiously with two hands on the steering wheel, your right middle finger would not possibly get you into road rage trouble. Of course if everybody drove religiously there would be a toilet paper-like run on the market for Saint Christopher medals.

Speaking of religion and broaching the subject of drinking and driving, remember, "Only your car can be recalled to its maker." Drive safely and keep your mask over your nose.. not your eyes.

Diebel New Mayor Of Nairn & Hyman Township

By Rosalind Russell Nairn & Hyman Township has a new mayor.

Deputy Mayor Frederic Diebel was appointed as Nairn & Hyman Township's new mayor following a notice of motion for his nomination, but it was not unanimous.

Councillor Rod McDonald did not support the nomination because Diebel lives hours away attending school where he is studying law at Lakehead University.

Zoom meetings and emails have enabled him to carry out the business of council, but McDonald says he prefers someone who lives in Nairn.

Despite his concern, council voted to have Diebel fill the position noting municipal elections will be held this fall.

The vacancy became open following the resignation of former mayor Laurier Falldien earlier this fall.

Laurentian's Lawyers And Speaker Continue War Of Words

The battle to have Laurentian University release information related to its insolvency is still being fought by the institution's lawyers.

A Speaker's warrant issued by the Ontario Legislature is focused on getting privileged information to the auditor general about the process.

However, Laurentian's legal counsel says it will ask the court to define what is privileged and what isn't to protect their client from the warrant demanding personal emails, correspondence, and legal details of the insolvency. There could be a ruling by early February and the lawyers continue to resist the warrant.

Lure of the North, an Espanola expedition company, has begun the training of participants to prep for a major winter trek.

Company owners, Kielyn and Dave Marrone, have several participants ready to take on a 90-day trek across the frozen northern landscape by snowshoe.

As of last week, they took the ten brave souls out for a four-day expedition to put their training to the test and see what they're made of.

Kielyn stresses winter is not joke and it is important those taking part have the proper equipment, clothing and training.

The two are planning a snowshoe expedition starting Monday across a large area of Northern Ontario, from Lake Superior to Moosonee with food drops and checks along the way.

It's a historic route says Dave adding it was one of the main traditional travel routes from the Great Lakes to the Arctic Ocean.

Espanola Elks Hosting Membership Drive

The Espanola Elks is hosting a membership drive to keep their hall open.

Exalted Ruler Wanda Ouimette says the club is in dire straits due to COVID-19 and a lack of volunteers.

She says purchasing a membership can help offset the costs of keeping the hall open and anyone who signs up can decide how much they wish to be involved as volunteers.

Ouimette adds the support of the community over the last year has allowed them to continue to operate, but if they do not receive support, they will have to consider closing. She says the Elks has been a part of Espanola for 70 years leading the way in lending medical equipment to those in need and the annual Hamper Fund which has provided thousands of families with food baskets over the last 44 years.
