Espanola To Celebrate Its Seniors

Photo - Seniors have been celebrated with take out lunches through the pandemic, but this year's celebration will be in-person, with swimming, displays, musical entertainment and lunch. Photo June 2021 by Rosalind Russell

By Rosalind Russell - The Town of Espanola is hosting a return to an in-person celebration of local seniors, an annual event held to thank the older citizens for their contributions to the community.

The town has announced they will host the 55+ Senior's Celebration at the Espanola Regional Recreation Complex on June 15th.

Health and wellness displays will be set up in the foyer and there are free swims throughout the day.

Seniors also have a choice of eating lunch in-house or take out, and there will be musical entertainment.

Anyone interested in attending must RSVP by June 8th.

Either call 705-869-1961 or email: frontdesk@espanola.ca to RSVP.

The CareVan is also available upon request for anyone needing transportation.

Island Trucking Business Named Canada Carrier Of The Year Award

Photo: Manitoulin Transport has received an award from an American-based company as Canadian Carrier of the Year. Logo - Facebook

A major trucking company based on Manitoulin Island has been named Canada Carrier of the Year.

U.S. based company Transplace, a third-party logistics freight company, has recognized Manitoulin Transport based out of Gore Bay on the Island.

According to Manitoulin Transport sales vice-president Terry Daly, the award ceremony was held as part of Transplace's eighth annual convention.

He adds due to COVID-19, no one from the company attended the Texas-based gathering earlier this month but Manitoulin Transport is honoured to be recognized as the Transplace Canada LTL Carrier of the Year.

Laurentian University Looking For Yet Another Extension

Laurentian University President Robert Hache says the institution will be asking the court for another extension early in the fall.

According to Northern Ontario Business, the current stay of bankruptcy proceedings expires on May 31st, but Hache says he wants an extension until September 30th.

He says the university is currently in negotiations to come up with a plan of arrangement to pay out its creditors, which they must then approve adding that is why the delay is needed.

Hache adds the motion for another stay will be heard in court on May 23rd.

Hache emphasizes the move is not a delay and there was never an expectation that the exit would take place on May 31st.

Laurentian declared insolvency and filed for creditor protection under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act on February 1st of last year.

Lack Of Records Makes Search At Spanish Residential Schools A Difficult Process

Photo: The ruins of one of the Spanish schools is still visible, but is on private property. The mouth of the Spanish River was the site for the joint boys' and girls' schools in Spanish, considered the largest in Canada, which operated from 1913 to 1965. Photo by Rosalind Russell operated from 1913 to 1965, so what data is available is being correlated.

He adds the process is difficult since the investigation includes getting approvals to investigate and look at private property.

Anyone with historical photos, notes, or stories to share about the school is asked to call the Serpent River team. Bissailion did not give any timeline as to if or

A lack of information and cooperation between officials is making the process of beginning the search at the Spanish residential schools a difficult one.

Serpent River First Nation Chief Brent Bissailion says the truth and reconciliation work for the Spanish residential boys' and girls' schools will take some time.

He says representatives from the First Nation met with Jesuit officials to ask for the records of the children who attended the school, but they were not forthcoming.

He adds the Truth and Reconciliation Commission does not have that information either.

Bissailion points out the Spanish schools are believed to be the largest in Canada, which when a ground search will be carried out.

On the national level, Indigenous leaders gathered in Kamloops, B-C to mark the anniversary of the discovery of unmarked graves at the site of a former residential school.

It was a year ago last week that the area's First Nation announced that 215 unmarked graves had been detected.

Band officials say they're now preparing to exhume the remains to try to identify them.

Since the discovery, thousands more unmarked graves have been found at residential school sites across the country.

Speaking at the ceremony, Governor-General Mary Simon committed to carrying forward the stories of the children who went missing.

Blind River Council Supports Ban All New Quarry Developments

Blind River council is endorsing a call to ban all new quarry developments in Ontario.

Reform Gravel Mining Coalition northern representative Rhonda Kirby met with council Monday night to talk about the ban.

Also a member of the group; Demanding a Moratorium Now, she told council they are also focused on halting a gravel pit development in the Township of the North Shore.

She says the pit could have a negative impact on the environment surrounding Lake Lauzon, Long Lake and the Serpent River watershed, as well as threatening the habitat of some local endangered species including the Blanding's Turtle.

Kirby points out a halt on the proposal was heard by the Ontario Land Tribunal in February and stakeholders are waiting for the final decision.

In the end, council endorsed the ban and will forward the resolution to the Ontario government.

New School Planned For Island First Nation

Photo - Sheshegwaning First Nation Chief Alana Endanawas says construction of the new Samson Edowishkosh Elementary School will not begin until next year, since research is still being carried out on the final design of the new building. It is one of the rare communities where the population of children has outgrown the present school and there is simply not enough room. Photo SFN

A new school is in the planning stages for an Island First Nation since the school has outgrown the number of young people in the community.

Sheshegwaning First Nation Chief Alana Endanawas says construction of the new Samson Edowishkosh Elementary School will not begin until next year, since research is still being carried out on the final design of the new building.

She says the architects, Tillman Ruth Robinson Incorporated of Sudbury met with community members earlier this month to discuss what features they would like to see in the new school, which will be built behind the current St. Joseph's School.

Endanawas says the architects will work on the final design with a final report expected this September.

She adds the school will feature four full-size classrooms for students from Grades 1 to 8, a resource lab, small gym, lunchroom and cafeteria with a completion date of September 2024.

The school feasibility study was completed in 2020 and in September of last year, Indigenous Services Canada approved the initial overall design of the new school. A request for proposal, RFP, was put out in October with the architects hired in November.

Killeen Officially Named New UCCM Chief of Police in M'Chigeeng

An officer working in an acting role over the last year has now been officially sworn in as Chief of Police for the United Chiefs and Councils of Manitoulin Anishnaabe Police on Manitoulin Island.

James Killeen was named acting chief a year ago to oversee policing throughout the First Nations on the Island. Killens says in 1997, he completed his training to be a constable and joined the then Sudbury Regional Police, now known as the Greater Sudbury Police Service, but he was placed in a hiring pool.

He adds when the opportunity came up to police on the Island, he decided to make the move.

The UCCM hosted the swearing-in held earlier this month to welcome him to his new position.
