Finalist For International Children's Peace Award Calls On Government For Advocacy

Photo - Autumn Peltier spent time at the House of Commons to have her petition discussed inside Parliament on the eve of National Truth & Reconciliation Day. She extends a thank you to Jagmeet Singh for taking the time to meet after House proceedings. As for elected officials, no response, even following her nomination for an international award. <https://remember-me-september-30.org/> Photo and link provided by AP - FB.

By Rosalind Russell - The first Canadian finalist of the International Children's Peace Award may not have won the top prize, but says she is already moving ahead in continuing to advocate for clean water for First Nations and others deprived of the resource.

Espanola Landmark Is No More – Old Water Tower Taken Down

Photo: A long-time Espanola landmark is no more. The decades-old water tower located on Bass Lake Road has been torn down following the relocation of the local radio station transmitter and the installation of a new water main in Espanola. Contractors were hired to bring down the old tower using a cable system ensuring the safety of the crew. It had been used for many years as the location for the radio's transmitter, which has been moved to the grounds of Public Works. Photo by Rosalind Russell

Anyone driving down Bass Lake Road will notice a large landmark, the old water tower, is now gone.

Following the move of the local radio's transmitter and the construction of the new water main, the old, green water tower installed decades ago was torn down.

Contractors used huge cables called excavators to bring the tower down safely.

The old tower had been used as the location for the transmitter for the local radio station for many years, but with the building of the new main waterline in Espanola, the decision was made to take down the tower to ensure public safety.

The radio's transmitter is now located on the new water tower on Public Works grounds.

Special Evening To Honour Retiring Espanola Firefighter

Photo - Wayne Ashton is officially retiring from the Espanola Volunteer Firefighters after five decades of service. He was feted this past Friday. Photo by Rosalind Russell gathered to honour Wayne Ashton who is retiring after 50 years of service to the fire department.

Ashton shared his story about how he became a member recalling back in the late winter of 1972, he decided to help firefighter and friend, Jim Ramsay at what would be a fatal fire.

He says that moved him profoundly and later that year he decided to join the department, adding he has witnessed many tragic situations, but he also was honoured to work with some of the most dedicated,

Five decades of service to the Espanola Volunteer Firefighters was the focus of a special gathering this past weekend. Peers, families, staff and firefighters honourable men and women he ever met. He is retiring with the rank of Associate Chief. The gathering took place at the Espanola Legion Friday evening.

Honouring Local Sacrifice Overseas

An Espanola couple took a trip of a lifetime earlier this year to not only take in the beauty of Europe, but also to pay honour to some veterans from Espanola who are buried overseas.

Len and Nives Foucault of Espanola decided to travel overseas after being retired for nine years.

He says the two took in the beauty of Portugal, Spain, and France.

"We arrived in Porto, northern Portugal, on April 4 and travelled through Portugal, Spain and France returning to Porto June 4 to fly home," recalls Len. "We had a great time and were treated very warmly in all three countries in large part because we were Canadians.

"Focusing on the smaller towns and villages we did enjoy larger sites such as the beautiful old city of Porto, the Basque city of Bilbao, Spain, in France the Palace of Versailles, Chateau Chenonceau, and Amboise where Leonardo da Vinci spent the last three years of his life. While passing through central France we visited Continvoir, the village where the Foucault family departed in 1662."

He says besides experiencing the local culture and sites we also wanted to visit the resting places of two of our local boys.

While on the coast of Normandy we stopped to honour a local gentleman who travelled a great distance to fight to keep the world free and ended up resting in Bretteville-sur-Laize, Canadian War Cemetery, Cintheaux," says Len. "Private Paul Emil Lemay, Espanola, of the Les Fusiliers Mont Royal was killed on August 5, 1944.

"Of the 2,871 soldiers buried there, 2,792 are Canadians with identifiable headstones, 91 who are unknown. "We signed the visitors book and noticed that the vast majority of visitors were French even though there is only one French soldier resting there," recalls Len.

While walking to the cemetery we were greeted by a lady who welcomed us to her home for coffee and sweets. "We enjoyed the friendly chat with Eliane & Didier Gesnis and was given a WW2 Clicker as souvenir. These 'Clickers' were used by the allies to identify each other at night by the clicking sound they made."

The cemetery, in the village of Calvados, is located 30 kms south of Caen, Normandy, and because it was late in the day, there was only one bus and no return. We were looking for a place to stay in Cintheaux, even though our Air B&B was paid for that night in Caen, when Eliane offered to drive us to the next village so we could catch a bus back to Caen. The highlight of their visit was to Vimy Ridge.

"In the city of Arras, France, we rented a car and drove to a part of Canada in France, Vimy Ridge. After that famous battle, where Canada was recognized as a nation for the first time on the world stage, France donated the land to Canada in perpetuity.

"Brigadier-General A. E. Ross declared after the war, "In those few minutes I witnessed the birth of a nation." It is a very moving place that belongs on every Canadian's bucket list. It is one of our nation's proudest moments and arguably our nation's defining moment yet many of our youth are not aware of the significance of Vimy Ridge."

A third stop was just a short drive away.

"Not far away we drove to the Ramilie British Cemetery where Private Harry Lecuyer, Espanola, Canadian Infantry, Nova Scotia Regiment, is resting. He was 20 years old when he was killed on October 9, 1918, just 32 days before the war ended."

Len adds the trip was full of wonderful experiences and many laughs but the most enduring were the visits with two of our local fallen.

When Does A Tradition Become A Tradition? Is It The Same As A Habit...

By Grant Lewis - When does a tradition become a tradition? Is it the same as a habit? Is there a time frame involved? If an action or event has been repeated for two years, does that qualify as a tradition or is it the "second annual"?

I think most people would agree that a tradition has to be positive or even honourable. A bad habit cannot be a tradition! Traditions stick around for a long time. Thankfully fads do not!

There are many traditions at this time of year: presents, Christmas trees, stars, decorations, wreaths, lights...the list is endless. In Espanola, we have wonderful events at this time of year which could be called traditions: the Christmas Cantata, the Christmas parade, Lions telethon, Lions Christmas party with Santa, and my favourite, the Espanola Lions annual toy drive.

Every year the town comes together to donate toys so that hundreds of local kids can have a merrier Christmas. And the tradition continues!!!

So many local businesses and groups are part of this. Pick an angel from the Angel Tree at Tanner's ....buy a gift and return it to the bin. When you check out at the Hart Store at the Mall, you can select and purchase a toy and receive a $5.00 gift certificate. Giant Tiger will have a bin for toy donations also. There will be a beautiful tree in the lobby at the Legion just waiting for gifts underneath it. Look for the "Agnes Michon Lions Toy Drive" signs. And you can "Tip a Teller" at the T.D.Bank. The club collects thousands of toys every year; wraps them and delivers them to make Christmas a happier event.

Speaking of wrapping gifts!!! If you would like to help out, please bring scissors, a friend and wrapping skills to the Upstairs room at the Legion on Thursday, December 15th at 10:00 a.m. For all you knitters out there, please call 869-5798 if you would like your tuque, scarves, mitts or glove picked up. Stay tuned for the date and location of the annual Teddy Bear Toss, always a fun event. After all, every kid needs a Teddy at Christmas!

And don't forget the CTV Lions Christmas Telethon on December 2nd!

These traditions make our community a kinder, happier, and better place for all.

Finalist For International Children's Peace Award Calls On Government For Advocacy

Wiikwemkoong Territory is not disappointed that her Japanese counterpart, 17-year-old Rena Kawasaki received the 2022 KidsRights International Children's Prize for her campaigns in ensuring that the voices of young people are heard, adding she has received accolades and support from many other officials in other countries.

But she is disappointed that her own government in Canada has not acknowledged that not only is she the first Canadian selected as a finalist, she is also the first Indigenous representative to do so.

Peltier, a global Indigenous Rights and Water Activist says she will continue to do her work in advocating for her causes, with or without the support of her own leaders.

The award was presented to Kawasaki at a special ceremony Monday, November 14th.

Ontario To Apologize To Miners Forced To Use McIntyre Powder

Photo - Father Jim Hobbs and his daughter, Janice Martell in happier days. Martell began the battle to have the link recognized in memory of her father, a hard rock miner who died in 2017 from Parkinson's disease. She will now take in the apology to miners at Queen's Park later this month. Photo supplied by Janice Martell and used with permission.

Sudbury MPP Jamie West says the Ontario legislature will apologize to miners who were forced to inhale McIntyre Powder as part of their job.

At a news conference last week, West said at the end of November, all MPPs are expected to be in attendance when the apology is extended to a select group of miners, their widows, and their families.

The daughter of a miner who died from Parkinson's, Janice Hobbs Martell of Elliot Lake, led the fight to have McIntyre Powder recognized as the cause between the disease and McIntyre Powder.

She told reporters that she wants to be there for her dad, all McIntyre Powder Project mine workers and the ones whose names she will never know.

Martell started the McIntyre Powder Project voluntary registry in April of 2015 and over the years, 597 people registered; 276 of those are deceased, some due to the disease.

She believes it is important for family members to be able to go to Queen's Park to hear the apology since it is an acknowledgement of a work practice that put so many at risk.
