Throw For A Cure A Success Despite Snowstorm

Photo - The 8th Annual Throw for a Cure had 30 participants plus fans take part Saturday, March 25th, raising $2,600 and counting for cancer research. Photo provided by Shelly Michon.

By Rosalind Russell - Over $2,600 and counting has been raised as part of the 8th Annual Throw for a Cure. The event took a hiatus of one year due to the pandemic. Saturday's snowstorm didn't stop 30 people from coming out to support the event at the Webbwood Eagles Hall says organizer Shelly Michon. She says 15 teams of two took part in the afternoon gathering, which was an excellent turnout with the money going towards the Northern Cancer Research Foundation. Michon also extends a thank you to the businesses that supported the event and the Eagles for donating the hall.

Donation By Firefighters Fills The Shelves At The Massey Food Bank

The Sables-Spanish Rivers Township Fire Department has made a generous donation to the Massey Food Bank.

Department public relations officer, Jillana Goodchild, says several members of the department met with Massey Food Bank volunteer Donelda Cannard to hand over a cheque for over $1,000 to go towards stocking the shelves and support the food bank programs.

She says the funds were donated through their PERF committee, which focuses on public education, recruitment and fundraising throughout the township.

Goodchild adds the funds were raised through their Sweetheart Dance they held on February 11th at the Webbwood Eagles, adding the members host several fundraisers throughout the year, not only to raise funds for local groups but to support their own programs and training initiatives.

Espanola Lions Club Pompe Donation

Until a few weeks ago, very few of us knew what Pompe disease was. Boy, have things changed quickly!!!

Many of us now know what the disease is, what are the effects, and what is being done to battle this disease which affects thousands even though it is deemed rare.

Enter Duke University in Durham, North Carolina. Duke is renowned for its Men's Basketball team and Women's golf. But more importantly is the Duke University School of Medicine and more specifically the Duke Health Rare Disease Centre and its leadership in Pompe Research. Since the 1990's, scientists have been exploring and researching enzyme replacement therapies to combat this degenerative disease. Finally in 2006, the F.D.A. approved a therapy and Duke has continued to improve, and to make families aware of its possibilities.

Also the Research Centre is a strong supporter of newborn screening to detect Pompe early. On February 13th, 2023, North Carolina along with a handful of other States, has implemented newborn screening for Pompe!!!

The earlier the treatment starts, the better the outcome! This is why the Lions Club of Espanola was proud to donate the proceeds from our BBQ during the rare disease awareness weekend to Duke University Pompe Research Program. Thanks to the incredible generosity of this town, we were able to raise $5,000!!! Once againsmall town HUGE HEART.

Hershey Canada Chooses Manitoulin Island Woman To Celebrate Canadian Women

Hershey Canada has chosen a Manitoulin Island woman as one of five to celebrate Canadian Women.

Wiikwemkoong Unceded Territory's Autumn Peltier and her advocacy for protecting water are being featured on a limited edition of HER for SHE chocolate bars produced by Hershey Canada and in partnership with Girl Up.

According to Hershey Canada, the chocolate bars are now available at participating locations across Canada, each bar highlights a young Canadian woman taking action to build a more positive future. Together with accompanying video spots produced in collaboration with Mint, the bar wrapper designs illustrate how each woman is using her voice and advocacy to contribute to lasting change.

Hershey Canada has also pledged $40,000 to Girl Up, an organization providing young women with the training, tools, and community to build leadership and accelerate social change.

This is part of a global initiative from The Hershey Company, which has been ranked as the World's Top Female Friendly Company, to shine light on the voices of more women making an impact in their communities.

This year's HER for SHE initiative spotlights five Canadian women working to build a better future through their passion, activism, and work in their communities: Autumn Peltier, Indigenous Rights and Water Activist; Fae Johnstone, 2SLGBTQIA+ Advocate; Rita Audi, Gender and Education Equality Activist; Naila Moloo, Climate Tech Researcher; and Kélicia Massala, founder of Girl Up Québec.

Hershey Canada worked with Toronto-based mural artist, Gosia Komorski, to bring the women's stories to life on limited-edition HERSHEY'S COOKIES N' CREME and HERSHEY'S WHOLE ALMOND bars.

Tougher Truck Driver Training And Testing

The opposition New Democrats want the Ford government to end what they call "highway carnage". And they're laying the blame on trucker training and testing. Following a particularly deadly weekend that includes a snowplow operator being killed in a collision with a transport, a Queen's Park news conference quoted stats from the auditor general.

They show that drivers tested by their driving school for a licence have a 95% pass rate. At Drive Test Centres, it's 69%.

And 25 percent of companies that do their own testing are among the worst for at-fault collisions.

Timiskaming-Cochrane MPP John Vanthof says good schools and good drivers are not universal.

"That's where the government can play a role, to make sure that the regulation of the schools, that the regulation of the trucks, that all trucks on the road are safe and the drivers are safe drivers."

Vanthof says it's the government's responsibility to correct that.

"We're going to continue to push, to make sure that all the schools are producing quality drivers and that the provincial government has enough people on the road to provide enforcement, to make sure that trucks on the road are safe."

Vanthof says some drivers aren't aware that they're driving "40-ton missiles", and wouldn't pass on hills and curves.
